Stevens Suggests Sir H. S. Holt As Inquiry Witness

Letter From Secretary of Company Causes Exchange of Views Between Members of Federal Business Inquiry Commission at Ottawa

LOW WAGES FOR MONTREAL BOYS

Ottawa, Nov. 21. — If Sir Herbert Holt, president of the Royal Bank of Canada and director of numerous companies, wants to refute any evidence before the Royal Commission on Mass Buying he should come before the commission himself, declared Hon. H. H. Stevens to-day.

The first few minutes of to-day's sitting of the inquiry were enlivened by a tit between Mr. Stevens, former chairman of the commission, and Chairman W. W. Kennedy, with J. L. Hisey, Liberal M.P. for Hants-Kings, N.S., taking part, over the reading of a letter saying Sir Herbert was no longer a director of United Corporation Limited, which has a substantial interest in the Stop and Shop chain of stores.

In previous evidence a commission auditor had given the names of the directors as obtained from the Assistant Provincial Secretary of Quebec. The letter, from the secretary of the company, stated Sir Herbert had resigned February 9, 1934, and that two other men mentioned as directors were now off the board.

Mr. Stevens contended the introduction of the letter gave the impression something was wrong with the evidence when it had been correct and Sir Herbert had been a director during the period under investigation except for a few months. The bank president, he said, would have to take his share of responsibility for the low wages and other conditions revealed.

Chairman Kennedy said the only object was to obtain up-to-date information.

FROM DAY TO DAY

"You could correct all your evidence from day to day as far as that is concerned," replied Mr. Stevens.

KING, LIBERAL LEADER, RETURNS

New York, Nov. 21.—Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Canadian Liberal leader, arrived in New York to-day aboard the liner Conte di Savoia after spending eight weeks in Europe.

Mr. King, looking exceptionally well after a pleasant voyage, refused to make any comment on questions of the moment, saying he had gathered some impressions on which he might have something to say later on in Canada.

Mr. King said he might leave for Ottawa to-night, or perhaps stay in New York for a day or two.

AGREEMENT ON BREAD PRICES

Winnipeg "War" Ends With Settlement to Come Into Force Friday

Winnipeg, Nov. 21. — Wholesalers were armed with a big stick to-day to prevent another outbreak of bread price war in Winnipeg.

Three weeks of price cutting and wrangling for retail trade will end Friday morning when a retail price agreement becomes effective. The agreement was reached yesterday evening at a conference presided over by Hon. W. J. Major, Manitoba Attorney-General.

As part of the agreement, bakers and wholesalers agreed they would not sell bread to any retailer who broke prices. With this section as a club, it was expected retailers would stick closely to the agreed prices.

The Attorney-General was called into the bread price war when independent bakers and the small retailers appealed to the Manitoba government to intercede. Mr. Major made it clear he was not acting in price fixing, but as an intermediary in bringing about a voluntary agreement to end the struggle.

Under the agreement, retail stores will sell unwrapped bread at 5c a loaf and two loaves for 8c, and wrapped bread at 6c each, or two for 11c. Bread sold off delivery wagons will be 6c unwrapped and 7c wrapped.

Will Honeymoon At Himley Hall

Prince George and His Princess Will Proceed to Dudley, Worcestershire; Will Spend Christmas at Sandringham

London, Nov. 21. — The Duke of Kent and Princess Marina will spend the first part of their honeymoon at Himley Hall, at Dudley, Worcestershire, the seat of the Earl of Dudley, Himley Hall, where the Prince of Wales and the Duke of Kent have often stayed, has been put at the disposal of the royal couple by Lord Dudley, who is a close personal friend of both the Prince of Wales and the Duke of Kent. It has not yet been decided how long the duke and duchess will stay at Himley Hall. It is probable they will join the King and Queen at Sandringham for Christmas and afterwards will complete their honeymoon on the continent in the new year.

Royal servants at Buckingham Palace, Windsor Castle, Sandringham and Balmoral have combined to give wedding presents to the duke and Princess Marina. They are giving three silver service pieces, marked with the duke's initial "G" to the duke and to Princess Marina a silver tea service, engraved with her initial "M." Both the "G" and "M" are carried out in a very plain design.

London, Nov. 21.—Another meeting between the Japanese and the British was expected late to-day in an endeavor to clarify the possibility still remaining in the tri-power naval talks, although it was generally conceded that a tri-partite agreement on a substitute for the Washington and London treaties was out of the question.

"EMPRESS" IS NOT VICTIM

Smaller of Two Bodies Found on Galapagos Isle Believed Frenchman

Los Angeles, Nov. 21.—First accurate descriptions of the two bodies found last Saturday on a waterless rock of the Galapagos Archipelago established to-day with apparent certainty that the strange "empress" of Charles Island — Baroness Eloise Bonquet de Wagner, formerly of Paris and Vienna — was not one of the victims.

A radio message to the Associated Press from Capt. Manuel Rodriguez of the tuna clipper Santa Amara, who found the bodies, gave a description of the smaller body which fitted Alfred Rudolph Lorenz of Paris. Lorenz's passport was found near the bodies.

He was an estranged companion of the Baroness de Wagner, brought by her to the old convict island of Charles about two years ago.

"The two bodies were lying on their backs," Capt. Rodriguez reported.

ELECTION IS LABOR TEST

Calgary People Vote to Decide If Present Council Control to Continue

Canadian Press
Calgary, Nov. 21. — Calgary's citizens went to the polls to-day to elect their civic representatives for 1935—to decide if Labor forces, as in the last year, will control the council and school board, or the Civic Government Association with its banner of a "new deal for the taxpayer," will take the dominant position.

Andrew Davidson, Calgary's Labor Mayor, was elected for a two-year term a year ago, and the voting to-day centres on the election of a city commissioner, with the present incumbent, T. B. Riley, Labor, seeking re-election. The polls will close at 8 p.m., M.S.T.

Commissioner Riley is opposed by James T. Burns, C.G.A. nominee, and three independents.

The electorate also is voting on the question of continuing the present system of electing a city commissioner every two years or of making the position a permanent appointment at the beginning of 1936.

COUNCIL CONTESTS
For the six aldermanic vacancies there are thirteen candidates, including representatives of Labor and the C.G.A., and a lone Communist, Lawrence Anderson. One woman is seeking office, Miss P. L. Fyfe, endorsed by the C.G.A. There are six candidates, including Murdoch Clark, Communist, for the three seats vacant on the public school board, and seven for the three vacancies on the separate school board.

REPORT OF DEATHS
Alpena, Mich., Nov. 21. — Four members of the crew of the steamer W. C. Franz were lost early to-day in a collision thirty miles south by east of Thunder Bay Island in Lake Huron, between the Franz and the Edward E. Loomis. The Franz went down.

A message from the steamer Belas Brothers, standing by, verified by O. K. Falor, operator of a radio station at Rogers City, said the Franz had sunk and that five survivors of its crew had been taken aboard the Loomis, which was proceeding south under its own power, with considerable water in its forward hold.

The Franz has a crew of eighteen. Radio messages said the Loomis was badly damaged forward in the collision.

STUCK IN FOG
The sea was moderate, the message said, but visibility still was bad. The collision occurred in the early morning hours in a heavy fog.

The exact location of the collision was given as fifty miles south by east from Thunder Bay Island, or seventeen and a half miles east by southeast of the Sturgeon Point light.

The W. C. Franz was a steel screw freighter of 2,429 gross tonnage owned by the Algoma Central and Hudson Bay Railroad. Built in 1901, the vessel, 346 feet long, was registered at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich.

The Loomis is a Great Lakes Transit Corporation vessel.

Harbor Beach, Mich., Nov. 21.—The steamer Edward E. Loomis, Great Lakes Transit Corporation freighter, carrying fifteen survivors of a collision in which the steamer W. C. Franz sank with four men, proceeded southward past this port this afternoon, apparently bound for Port Huron, seventy-five miles away.

It was four members of the Franz's crew who went down with the ship to the bottom of Lake Huron, not far from Alpena, but their names will not be known until the Loomis pulls in to port.

The continued southward cutter Cardigan, which was proceeding slowly, reported the disaster.

Milk Marketing Board Is Named

Government Appoints Hugh Davidson Chairman of Body to Control Fraser Valley Dairy Industry; Pooling Powers Conferred on Board

After a truce between rival factions had been negotiated by Hon. K. C. MacDonald, Minister of Agriculture, the provincial government to-day approved the appointment of a commodity board of three to control marketing of the milk output of the Fraser Valley.

This board will consist of Hugh Davidson, as chairman; W. J. Park, representing the Fraser Valley Milk Producers' Association; and W. T. McArthur, an independent dairyman.

It is the first wholly provincial industry that has been brought under the Marketing Act, the only others being the tree fruits and salt fish, both of which are mainly handled through the federal marketing authority.

With the appointment of the milk board to-day a lengthy controversy between the different producing groups as to the methods of control that should be used, was halted.

STEVENS FOR BUILDING PLAN

Says Canada Could Well Spend Billion on Housing and Other Works

Ottawa, Nov. 21.—Dominion and provincial government laws require overhauling and Canada is in need of a national construction program which might, in the next few years, involve expenditure of $1,000,000,000, Hon. H. H. Stevens, M.P., considers. In a speech before the Ottawa Junior Board of Trade, the former Minister of Trade and Commerce advanced this belief yesterday evening.

With respect to the first contention, the former chairman of the Mass Buying Commission, who is still a member of that body, suggested certain changes in the laws governing incorporation of companies. Capital should be limited to the actual requirements of the proposed company, he said. The function to be performed by a company should be stated definitely and responsibility should be allowed to be manufacturer, distributor and financier all in one issue of worthless securities should not be permitted.

Prince George's Fiancee Returns to British Capital To-day to Complete Final Arrangements for Wedding November 29

London, Nov. 21.—Beautiful, blue-eyed Princess Marina of Greece returned to London to-day for the last few days of hurried preparations for her wedding on November 29 to the Duke of Kent, the youngest son of the King.

She found the city blanketed with a choking fog, but she also found a welcome from their Majesties and from the public which was as warm as a brilliant summer day.

The Duke of Kent traveled to Dover this morning to accompany his future bride to London after her Channel crossing, while the King and Queen braved the yellowish, acid mist to greet her at the railroad station.

Woman Held After Discovery in Trunk Checked in Brooklyn Warehouse

New York, Nov. 21.—Discovery of the bodies of three infants in a trunk which had been checked in a Brooklyn warehouse on July 15, 1932, was disclosed to-day at police headquarters.

The discovery led to the arrest of a woman who identified herself as Ruby Clarke, thirty-six, of Rocky Road, Upper Nyack, N.Y. Questioned in the police lineup, she said the trunk belonged to her, but denied she had known what it contained.

Since the summer of 1932 the trunk had gathered dust in the warehouse. Suspicious workmen finally opened it and made their gruesome find yesterday. Police quickly traced ownership of the luggage.

India Constitution Plans Made Public

Federation of Provinces, With Much Self-management and Central Government Recommended in Report to Go Before British Parliament

London, Nov. 21.—An All-India federation comprised of self-governing units is advocated in the long-awaited report of the select joint Parliamentary Committee on Indian Reform, made public this afternoon.

The report urges this system be substituted for the present centralized government. Eleven provinces of British India, two of them new, would be linked in the federal system with the native Indian states, which would enter the federation by voluntary act of their rulers.

These recommendations in the main follow the proposals laid down in the governmental white paper of last year for reform of the Indian government in the direction of granting self-rule "with safeguards," in other words still reserving control over vital questions of defence, external relations and the like, to the Viceroy and through him the British government, while extending internal self-government to the new legislatures.

Officers as the Governor should direct. The Governor would have power to take direct control of any branch of the government necessary for the purpose of combating terrorism.

The report will be the basis of a government bill to be introduced probably just after Christmas, on which parliament will be kept busy for many months. Ultimately the reforms will be put into effect by royal proclamation.

The report represents the fruit of an inquiry carried out during the last six years, in India and in round-table conferences in London.

CORE SELF-MANAGEMENT

The report contemplates changes in the internal regime of the native states, nor in the relationship between their rulers and the crown outside the federal sphere, but it is proposed the British Indian provinces should manage their own affairs to a greater extent than at present.

The provincial administration would have jurisdiction over the great majority of government departments, affecting individuals, and also dealing with law and order. The federated government would deal with matters such as currency and tariffs concerning India as a whole.

Defence and foreign affairs would remain the direct responsibility of the Viceroy or Governor-General.

NEW LEGISLATURES

Each of the provinces would have elective legislative assembly chosen by direct vote of an electorate that would amount to about 10 per cent of the population. (Present electorates are hardly of that proportion.)

In five of the provinces there would be both upper and lower houses.

The federation would have upper and lower houses, composed of members indirectly elected by the provinces, and representatives nominated by the self-ruling native states.

PROTECT MINORITIES

In the federal and provincial assemblies alike, a quota of seats would be ensured to the various religious or ethnic minorities. The report foresees both federal and provincial governments composed of ministers responsible to the legislatures, such as cabinet ministers are responsible to parliament in Great Britain and the Dominion.

The report recommends the Governor-General and the various provincial governors be guided by the advice of the elected ministers, so long as they are satisfied that in doing so they are not conflicting with certain special responsibilities of parliament that will be imposed under the new constitution.

Those continued responsibilities cover a wide field, including the prevention of any grave menace to peace and tranquility, safeguarding of the rights of minorities, and in the case of the Viceroy or Governor-General safeguarding the financial stability of India and its credit.

The report devotes special attention to the problem of terrorism, making special recommendations in this connection.

The general effect of the proposals is that in the provinces, and with certain reservations, in the federal centre, there will be a system of parliamentary government except when circumstances require the exercise of the over-riding powers of the Governor-General or the Provincial Governor.

The report advocates recruitment in Britain for the Indian civil and military services, and also the preservation of the rights of these services.

Steps are proposed for the protection and discipline of the police, and independence of the judiciary from effect of political influences.

Safeguards are also proposed against the fiscal freedom of India being used to damage British trade by penal tariffs.

BOUND FOR FORT WILLIAM

A message from the Relas Brothers said the Loomis was heading for the beach, Mich., where there is a contingent of the Canadian coast guard. The names of the four crew members lost were not available, nor could it be learned the exact extent of the damage to the Loomis. It was reported, however, that the crew of the Loomis had the pumps at work and had the situation in hand.

The Loomis is in command of Capt. Alex McKenna, a Great Lakes veteran. The chief engineer is Harold Flaherty. She carries a crew of thirty-one men and has a gross tonnage of 4,212. The Loomis was built in 1901 and Buffalo is her home port. The Franz had delivered a cargo of wheat at Port Colborne, Ont., and was upbound for another load of grain.

H. S. Holt As Inquiry Witness

"I think everyone got the impression Sir Herbert Holt was a director of this company," said Commissioner J. L. Riley.

"So he was," said Mr. Stevens. W. R. Kay, commission auditor, was shown a letter from the secretary of the United Corporation Limited, saying three men named as directors in Mr. Kay's previous evidence were not now directors. Sir Herbert Holt and R. S. Walde of Toronto had resigned.

"Sir Herbert in February, 1934, and Mr. Walde in October," said F. G. Bush had been named for purposes of incorporation only and had ceased to function.

Mr. Kay said his information as to the company officers had been obtained from the return made by the company to the Quebec Government on August 18, 1933.

"What is the point of all this?" asked Mr. Stevens. "I don't see why a letter should be read now to give an impression something was wrong with the evidence."

FACTS WANTED
Chairman Kennedy said it was merely a question of getting the facts and giving no such impression.

"Judge," said Mr. Stevens, "He was a director during the five years we were investigating and must take his share of responsibility for the low wages and other things revealed."

"There is no desire to exculpate any one," said Mr. Kennedy. "I take strong exception to the letter," said Mr. Stevens. "Let Sir Herbert Holt come here and take the stand and make any rebuttal he wants instead of writing in letters about it."

"This is not a sending in of letters," said Mr. Kennedy. "It is merely additional evidence obtained from the secretary of the company."

The incident passed and the commission went on with its investigation.

BOYS IN STORES

Employment of homeless boys, inmates of the Montreal Boys' Home, by chain stores for as long as seventy hours a week and for wages ranging from $1.50 to $4 was disclosed to the commission today. J. P. McDermott, an official of the Montreal institution, gave instances of thirty-seven cases, thirty-three of which referred to three chain stores and the remaining four to independent retailers.

"If these lads are working seventy hours a week there is no chance to educate them," said Mark C. Senn, Conservative M.P. for Haldimand, Ont.

The witness agreed the opportunity under these conditions was denied. The institution had experienced lack of co-operation from the stores, he said.

With regard to pay, the managers were opposed to higher wages. "We have cases where a boy has been let off without any pay at all," Mr. McDermott said. "The store manager had declared business to have been lost."

The wage of that lad was $1.50 a week.

"What is the effect on a boy of these tremendously long hours?" asked Hon. H. H. Stevens. "Very poor. He goes out before the others are out of bed and returns late at night," said the witness. He has no recreation and is simply a slave."

NO LUNCH HOUR

Mr. McDermott said that in no case was there any lunch hour given these messenger boys, and in practically every case they had to pay for their own carfare. This cost about 75 cents a week out of their wage.

One boy started work at 6 a week and at the end of two months had been reduced to 25. The home had taken him off the job.

APPOINTMENT CONFIRMED

Provisional appointment by Dominion Minister of Agriculture Robert Weir of the three members of the British Columbia Tree Fruits Board was confirmed today and the board made permanent by unanimous vote of delegates from all twenty fruit-growing areas of the B.C. interior.

Appointment of George A. Barratt, Kelowna; Walter B. Haskins, Penticton; and Morris W. Hembling, Oyanas, was announced August 14, the board being set up under the Natural Products Marketing Act.

The meeting yesterday established the board members' salaries at $3,000 a year and ordered that the members be prohibited from holding any other office in any fruit shipping or selling organization.

AGES NOT DETERMINED

The condition of the three bodies prevented immediate determination of their age or sex.

Miss Clarke is under arrest on a charge of homicide, brought against her by the district attorney's office yesterday evening.

When she went the trunk to the warehouse, Miss Clarke said, it contained an accumulation of miscellaneous items, pictures, books and a few articles of clothing.

The prisoner, a woman of medium height, was well groomed and taste-fully dressed.

Weather So Thick Many in London Spend Night in Autos and Busses at Curb

Canadian Press and Associated Press

London, Nov. 21.—The season's worst fog, which for the last three days has plagued most of England, closed again around London early today, thicker than ever. It tied up sea traffic in the Thames and snarled traffic throughout the metropolis.

The Cunard liner Albatross was fog-bound a quarter mile off shore in the Thames, already forty-eight hours behind schedule.

Fires and other devices, coupled with increased police control, failed to cope with groping traffic tangles in London. Hundreds of motor cars and busses were stalled at the curb, and many of their occupants passed the night in the vehicles.

Late passengers on suburban trains were delayed hours, some of them walking miles to their homes.

The liner Albatross, from Montreal, was to have docked Monday morning, but was obliged to anchor near Dartford. Her passengers could not land, nor could they communicate with waiting friends, traffic in small boats being so risky.

Radio regulations prevented radio phone communication from ship to shore, and the only word from the Albatross was "too thick, cannot move."

The boat in which Princess Juliana of the Netherlands is travelling, Rotterdam was held off Thameshaven. The Duke of Kent was attending the wedding of Princess Marina and the Duke of Kent.

MILK MARKETING
BOARD IS NAMED

All decisions of the board may, however, be appealed to the Provincial Marketing Board and through it to the provincial government.

If pooling is attempted, the scheme provides, it must conform to the provisions of the B.C. Milk Act. The board is to be composed of nine members, to be limited to the milk of fluid milk to properly graded dairies. In the Fraser Valley there are said to be 3,000 dairies which are in either grade C or ungraded, and the board is to put a large force of inspectors in the valley to regulate the dairies and give the owners of this class of dairies an opportunity to improve their grade.

The operation of the scheme will be closely supervised in Victoria as lower island dairymen are contemplating a marketing scheme of their own. Difficulties attendant upon the operation of the scheme will not be so serious, most of the dairies selling milk in Victoria conform to the Milk Act grades.

Dr. MacDonald attended a meeting in Vancouver yesterday afternoon with the dairymen when the plan for meeting their troubles was developed. Both sides to the willingness shown by both sides to get together and arrive at a solution.

AGREEMENT TO END STRIKE

Cumberland Dispute Expected to End With Signing of New Pact Today

Cumberland, Nov. 21.—With the conclusion of negotiations this afternoon between the strikers' committee and colliery officials it is expected that the new agreement will be signed, which will end the strike called on November 5.

The agreement had not been signed at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon, but negotiations were continuing. The return to work was reached yesterday afternoon following a mass meeting of the men, the vote to end the dispute being virtually unanimous. Only fifteen men dissented when a show of hands was called for.

The agreement as previously presented to the strikers by the Canadian Collieries (Dunsmuir) Limited will be signed, it is understood, with the concession that the agreement terminate in two years instead of three.

The strike committee met J. Hunt of Nanaimo, acting for the Canadian Collieries (Dunsmuir) Limited, Col. C. W. Villiers, general manager, being in Victoria.

Haulage men who have been getting $4.22 a day, under the new agreement, will be paid $4.30. Other concessions in working conditions have been granted the men.

TERMS OF AGREEMENT

Following are the main terms of the agreement:

Rents now paid for company houses will in the future be computed by multiplying the present four weeks' rents by twelve and dividing the result into thirteen periods. In other words, the employees will pay in future one month's rent less during the year than in the past.

The charge for mine lamps will be 3 cents a day for day workers, instead of 75 cents every four weeks. Employees' coal will be reduced from $3.75 to $3.50 a ton.

Chumkey will be supplied free of charge with Watson gloves. Powder will be charged for at the rate of 20 cents a pound, instead of 25 cents. Caps will be charged at the rate of 8 cents per cap, instead of 9 cents per cap.

Split timbers, when used as road posts, will be paid for at the rate of 17 cents a timber.

Haulage men now rated at $4.22 a day will be paid at the rate of $4.30. Boys employed on haulage will work up to the same rate at $4.30 a day by six monthly raises of 25 cents.

No man will be discriminated against, and no man will be laid off. Boys employed on haulage will be paid without adequate reason, and management and the agreement committees.

The larger one was about six feet, bald in front with a small tuft of hair on back.

The head was resting on a bundle of clothing. The clothes on the body were light colored.

The other body was fifty-eight feet away. It was five and a half feet high, very slight, with thick long hair, four inches long. It wore pants, cut or torn off at the knees.

WORDS LOST

Part of the message to the Associated Press from the tuna clipper was lost in transmission, owing to the weakness of the sending set.

The Santa Amaro left the scene of the tragedy soon after the bodies were found and proceeded northward, continuing its fishing.

W. Charles Swift, chief officer of the exploration cruiser Velez III, who had met all those living in the shipwreck permanently, said on hearing of the disaster, "I have definite description of the bodies."

"The smaller one might well be Alfred Rudolph Leons of Paris, whose passenger was reported found near the shipwreck."

"As to Nuggerood, the Norwegian, who according to some theories might have been the second victim, my memory is that he was not six feet tall."

"I do not know that he was bald, but he usually wore a hat."

STEVENS FOR

Finally, as incorporation was a privilege granted by the state, said Mr. Stevens, it should follow companies created by it with such supervision "as will secure a fair deal to those who form the state." Until there was such supervision, people would do things in the name of a company which they would "scorn" to do as individuals.

BUILDING PLAN

Dealing with his proposed building programme, the former minister said that "during the next few years Canada could wisely and economically get a fair living return."

He stated that in Montreal and Toronto thousands of buildings were "a menace to health and a dangerous fire hazard." Conditions in other cities and towns of Canada were similar. These conditions, taken in association with the fact that the

to all, Mr. Woodsworth said it was "fine Liberal doctrine."

"The Liberal doctrine has been that ever since the days of Adam Smith," he said, "but they have failed to accomplish anything."

There was little hope, continued Mr. Woodsworth, in expecting the state to achieve much success merely as a "referee." "If the state itself would monopolize some of these things we would get somewhere," and he mentioned milk, bread and coal as three basic industries which should be controlled by the state.

PRIVATE CAPITAL

A national programme of construction ought to be financed by private capital under public leadership, Mr. Stevens asserted. It had been estimated that Canada's replacement building requirements and ordinary repairs amounted to approximately $400,000,000 per annum. Canada was now in arrears to the extent of at least two-thirds of the normal for three years, or in value about $600,000,000.

HOPES FOR LEGISLATION

The former minister, whose subject was "What Can We Do About It?" said that while he had no intention of anticipating the report of the Mass Buying Commission, of which he was a member, he had "certain definite opinions as to what may be done to greatly improve conditions—both in merchandising and as to the condition of the worker."

He also believed much could be done to assist the farmer. He proposed, he said, to submit these views for improving conditions to the Commission, "with the hope they may be accepted and later crystallized into legislation at the next session of Parliament."

IN CONTROL

In Canada, proceeded Mr. Stevens, great corporations controlled the tobacco industry, the meat-packing industry, the canning industry, flour mills, the retail trade covering food, furniture, clothing and boots and shoes, the pulp and paper industry, distilleries, and the textile industry. These and others were dominated by a few small groups. "And these are common to all—profits."

The profit motive was not necessarily bad, if it was controlled, he said. It is the uncontrolled profit motive that is standing in the way of democracy. "The selfish corporation bred selfish men. Men who in their personal lives may actually be generous, will, as corporation officials, be as cold as ice and as hard as steel." Against this, unrelenting war must be waged.

It was no longer a case of citizen competing against citizen, or firm against firm, Mr. Stevens said. It was a case of "great quasi-monopolies, not competing with, but crushing smaller competitors and dictating their own terms."

NEW RULES
In view of this condition, he said, the state must take a part in regulating business. The state must act as a "referee." It must see that the rules of the game are observed. Among these rules Mr. Stevens placed first in importance that the producer get a fair living return. "Under existing rules he gets what is left after all other charges are cared for," he said. People were told stock and bond contracts were "sacred." Mortgage interest must be paid at agreed rates. "Although wheat or beef has fallen to one-half or less of its value when the contract was made, this may be sound law, but it is not equity."

The company laws of Canada, needed overhauling, he continued. Capital should be limited to the actual requirements of the company. In the two years 1928 and 1929, said Mr. Stevens, Dominion and provincial companies had increased their capitalization by $2,400,000,000. The net result was "a lot of worthless securities had been sold to the public which can never be taken care of."

Mr. Stevens declared "If corporations will not do what is just by state laws, then it is a duty the state dare not evade to step in and act as a referee. The farmer producer must get a square deal. Otherwise the country will perish."

In advocating a huge construction programme to revive economic prosperity in Canada, Hon. H. H. Stevens, former Minister of Finance and Commerce, is supporting proposals of the government of British Columbia. It was indicated here today.

"Everybody knows for a very considerable time I have been advocating a substantial programme of public works enterprise. Some days ago I wrote to Prime Minister Bennett suggesting that generous appropriation should be made this year by the Dominion Parliament to stimulate not only new construction, but repairing of buildings worth while repairing." Premier Pattullo said this morning when asked for his views.

Mr. Stevens was referring to his plan to have a huge building scheme started with the expenditure of $200,000,000 a year. For the whole of Canada over a period of five years. He pointed out the country's development has been based on capital construction, and when this ceased with the depression it could not help but throw thousands on the relief lists.

In his statement today the Premier explained that a works programme would be a self-sustaining measure and would stimulate almost every line of endeavor. "It will be recalled," he continued, "that the Dominion appropriated $25,000,000 after the war for better housing, of which this province secured a substantial amount, and nearly 50,000 houses were built in this province."

Recent classification of relief rolls in this province have shown just how the state can help. A building programme would employ thousands of the type of employment which is required, relief authorities pointed out. Out of 20,000 applications for relief, approximately 6,000 were specifically classified as belonging to the building trades, without taking into account "common laborers," who are normally employed in building.

WOODSWORTH'S VIEWS

Winnipeg, Nov. 21.—The billion dollar building programme advocated at Ottawa yesterday evening by Hon. H. H. Stevens, M.P., former Minister of Finance and Commerce, was along the line of urging by the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation, except that it would run the country into further debt, declared J. S. Woodsworth, M.P., here today.

The C.C.F. leader, in commenting on Mr. Stevens' proposal, said he was "quite right"—only the government would be unable to persuade private capital to indulge in such expenditure under public stimulus without giving subsidies. "Subsidies will cost money," he asserted.

"The C.C.F. is all in favor of a large spending programme, but," he stressed, "financed by the public treasury and directed in a way better would benefit the people, not merely the construction of armories."

Premier R. B. Bennett's $400,000,000 programme was, in his view, more beneficial to the country, declared the C.C.F. chief, as it would not involve heavy liabilities to the Dominion's treasury.

But the C.C.F. would like to see a "really large spending programme carried on by the government itself, not entailing subsidies granted private capital."

RULES FOR BUSINESS
Referring to Mr. Stevens' view that the state should regulate the "selfish corporations" in big business by acting as a "referee" to control the profit motive and secure fair wages to all, Mr. Woodsworth said it was "fine Liberal doctrine."

"The Liberal doctrine has been that ever since the days of Adam Smith," he said, "but they have failed to accomplish anything."

There was little hope, continued Mr. Woodsworth, in expecting the state to achieve much success merely as a "referee." "If the state itself would monopolize some of these things we would get somewhere," and he mentioned milk, bread and coal as three basic industries which should be controlled by the state.

WANT INCREASE IN DAIRY SALES

Members of National Dairy Council Discuss Industry at Toronto

Canadian Press
Toronto, Nov. 21.—W. H. Forester of Hamilton, president of the National Dairy Council, said at the annual meeting of that body yesterday its members "will consider ways and means for increasing consumption of dairy products."

The president maintained production of wheat in recent years had been ousted from pre-eminence in the nation's farm life by the dairying interests and 215,000 farmers in Canada were producing milk.

He mentioned what he termed a disparity between prices paid for milk supplied for domestic consumption and prices paid for that supplied for industrial and manufacturing purposes, including cheese and butter.

He said the council would be asked to consider the best method of reducing the nation's surplus of butter and suggested the Dominion Government might be asked to make a grant of $5,000 toward the council's work. Mr. Forester declared conditions in the milk industry were such that they "may be regarded as a national calamity." He maintained the dairy industry had as much right to government assistance as that of wheat growing.

Hon. Robert Weir, Dominion Minister of Agriculture, commended to the council that it formulate a plan to become effective under the Dominion Natural Products Marketing Act. He cautioned, however, that any plan which would increase consumption of milk at the expense of the cheese industry would be detrimental.

Three Children Burned to Death

Associated Press
Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 21.—Three small children lost their lives today in a fire which demolished their north Cambridge home.

Firemen were able to rescue their mother and father, Charles and Hilda Smith, and a two-year-old brother, Charles Jr.

The victims were Eugene, five; Chandler, four; and Leonard, ten weeks. The children were sleeping in a room off the kitchen of the home as fire swept through the room.

Firemen saved the parents as they were making vain efforts to reach the youngsters.

New Monetary System Is Urged

Canada May Be First to Adopt Sane Changes, Says G. G. McGeer, M.P.P.

Canadian Press
Vancouver, Nov. 21.—Canada may be the first nation to adopt a sane monetary system, G. G. McGeer, K.C., M.P.P., declared in an address to the Retail Credit Grantors' Association here yesterday, during which he propounded his theories on national credit.

"We have come to the time when we cannot borrow or try to tax our way to prosperity," he said. "Business men throughout the country are unanimous in their opinion that the hours of labor must be reduced. There must be a more equitable distribution of wealth than the mere 421/2 months that many of our citizens are getting."

Mr. McGeer declared progress depended on a three-point cycle—production, consumption and replacement.

He said the Douglas Social Credit System had its merits, but stated he was of the opinion the circulation of wealth was the only way to avoid disaster.

"Money is the only thing we are short of," he concluded.

FARM BOARD SEEKS SUPPORT

U.S. 1935 Corn-hog Program Is Relaxation of Previous Restrictions

Associated Press
Washington, Nov. 21.—The United States Agricultural Adjustment Administration is appealing to farmers to support the 1935 corn-hog program, which represents a considerable relaxation of the drive for drastic slashes in output.

Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace announced that next year's acreage adjustment contracts would call for a 10 per cent reduction each in corn acreage and hog numbers from the 1933-35 averages. Cuts of 20 to 30 per cent in corn acreage and 25 per cent in hogs were required this year.

Easing up the programme further, the A.A.A. will permit farmers to rent any part of their corn fields to the government, purchase feeder pigs from other contract signers and grow any crop except corn on rented acres.

MISSIONARIES FLEE AS REDS ADVANCE

Associated Press
Shanghai, Nov. 21.—Foreign missionaries were reported today to be evacuating a wide area throughout Kweichow and Hunan provinces. The two provinces apparently are in the path of Chinese Communist forces, which are fighting their way slowly westward in the hope of establishing a Soviet state in the extreme western section of China.

Frequent clashes between the reds and Cantonese troops, out to crush the migration, have taken place recently. The Communists are estimated to number about 50,000.

Associated Press
Gloucester, N.S., Nov. 21.—Denial that the Amalgamated Mine Workers were affiliated in any way with the Communist Party of Canada was made yesterday by Alex Farrell, board member for the organization in the Gloucester district.

He was commenting on the statement of District President D. W. Morrison of the United Mine Workers of America that the A.M.W. "Received its direction" from the Communist Party.

Irish Republican Army Is Recruiting

Mallow, County Cork, Nov. 21.—Tom Barry, leader of the Irish Republican Army of South Ireland, yesterday urged that women, "and even girls and boys," join the army to get ready for the day when the east connecting link between Ireland and Great Britain will be broken.

"Get ready for the day," the Irish leader exhorted. "It won't be long now."

Port Hope, Ont., Poison Hunt Fails

Canadian Press
Port Hope, Ont., Nov. 21.—Police yesterday revealed that a bottle containing an unidentified liquid, thought at first to have been a clue to the mysterious death almost three weeks ago of Donald Wilson, publisher of The Port Hope Guide, contained no arsenic, the poison which was believed to have killed the young newspaperman.

Wilson died in a hospital after eating a meal and was believed to have succumbed to a violent stomach ailment until a few days ago, when analysis of the stomach and intestines revealed presence of arsenic.

Philadelphia, Nov. 21 (Associated Press)—Charles V. Olden, forty-three, war veteran, "died" in death. The body was found yesterday beside his radio set, to which bare wires were attached. He committed suicide, police say, by hooking up the wires, then turning on the volume control.

MISSING NEGRO PRESUMED DEAD

Vancouver, Nov. 21.—Joseph Butler, negro homesteader missing fourteen years, was presumed dead in the B.C. Supreme Court here yesterday by Mr. Justice D. A. McDonald.

Inquiries made by Edgar C. Lunn, official administrator, Quesnel, B.C., indicated Butler disappeared in the fall of 1920 from his pre-emption fifty miles from Prince George. The negro was in the habit of making the trip in a canoe and five years after his disappearance, a prospector found a human skull and bones on the bank of the Fraser River.

The skull was identified as of negro type and it is assumed Butler took an epileptic fit, to which he was subject, died on the river bank, and the body was destroyed by wild animals.

Mr. Lunn was appointed to take charge of Butler's estate, consisting principally of $200 in a bank.

CANADA'S NEED—LIBERALISM

IN 1932 AND AGAIN IN 1933 THE LIBerals in the House of Commons at Ottawa put resolutions on the order paper for a price-spread inquiry such as that which is now being conducted by the Bennett government—and over which Mr. Stevens and the Prime Minister have quarreled violently. But in both years the resolutions were defeated. This fact was emphasized by Hon. Ian Mackenzie, Liberal member for Vancouver Centre, in a masterly analysis of Canadian affairs before the Liberal nominating convention at the Shrine Hall on Monday night.

Mr. Mackenzie's view in respect of this inquiry leads the public to believe that when the party to which he belongs regains office—as it will do after the next general election—it will continue the inquiry on a much broader plane. We shall expect it, for instance, to take up the Anti-Combines Act and put more teeth in it. A Liberal government at Ottawa at this stage of the nation's progress naturally will want to know to what extent labor is being exploited; it will want to stick its nose into stock-watering, a matter in which the general public is concerned.

As Mr. Mackenzie said on Monday night, "Liberalism is the great need of the day." He was wise to warn his audience, however, that if the Liberal party fails to enact legislation for the benefit of the great masses of people, it will have lost its last opportunity. To quote the Vancouver member again: "The need of the moment is restoration of responsible government in Canada, and we must have that restoration, or generations yet to come will have to fight again the battle for liberty."

Liberalism, to be Liberalism, must be plastic; it must adapt itself to the changing times. Toryism belongs to another day, it is regimentation of public thought—the antithesis of democracy.

A WELCOME VISITOR

DURING HIS TERM OF OFFICE AS Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia, Hon. R. Randolph Bruce, who, with Mr. Bruce, is revisiting Victoria, played so conspicuous a part in the effective promotion of the public welfare in many directions, he became so widely known and so universally popular throughout the province, that he still is a subject of general friendly interest. This interest is mutual in nature, for the force and enthusiasm with which Mr. Bruce continues to champion the cause of British Columbia wherever he may be, to describe with a wealth of information which only he can give the resources of the province and to predict its emergence into a prosperous future.

The optimism with which the former Lieutenant-Governor began his career in British Columbia, surmounting many formidable problems, and radiated over a wide orbit while in office at the capital, has not been diminished as far as this province is concerned since his withdrawal into private life. He is veritably an admirable tonic all by himself, and it is to be regretted that Victoria does not see him more often.

THE "ENGLISHMAN'S HOME"

ALTHOUGH THE INCITEMENT TO DISaffection Bill, designed to safeguard the loyalty of the armed forces of Great Britain, has been passed by parliament in London, it had to run a gamut of attack from numerous elements representing many walks of life. It is altogether inaccurate to describe all the opponents of the measure as Socialists, unless the term can be applied to many staunch Conservatives, high dignitaries of the Established Church, eminent publicists and public men who are much less Socialistic than Mr. Ramsay MacDonald professed to be before he became the head of a Tory administration and a tamed and cultivated lion in Mayfair.

There already is a strict law in all British countries against the propagation of sedition. Why a measure beyond this should be deemed necessary by the present government for specific application to the armed forces, with provisions for searching premises on what may be only the vaguest suspicion, is a mystery, unless, indeed, the government is not certain of the dependability of its armed forces. These provisions undoubtedly have put an end to the age-old comfortable principle that "an Englishman's home is his castle," while, according to the Bishop of Birmingham, a clergyman who expounded the Sermon on the Mount to the soldiers or sailors would find himself liable to prosecution. It is even declared by some legal authorities that books on the war which were critical of the conduct of high military command, like that of Lloyd George, for example, could be considered to be seditious literature under the bill.

However great the majority for the measure in Parliament, there can be no question that it leaves a bad taste in the mouth of the British public, which, perhaps, more than any other public in the world, opposes any restriction of its freedom of expression or the invasion of its home by the police except in extraordinary circumstances. There is, however, a deeper significance in the legislation than is apparent on the surface of it. It is merely another symptom of the jitters which now afflict many European statesmen. Evidently the outbreaks in Germany, Austria and France early this year have created a nightmare which has danced across the channel. A domestic upheaval of violence in the British Isles is extremely remote. It could be precipitated only by an attempt to establish a Fascist dictatorship, and that is scarcely probable.

THE VOICE OF BUSINESS

SIR ROBERT BORDEN, CANADA'S WAR-time Prime Minister and a life-long Conservative, delivered an address at the annual meeting of Barclay's Bank of Canada, of which he is president, at Montreal yesterday and took occasion to score economic nationalism and increasing expenditures on national armaments.

"The folly of attempts at economic isolation is paralleled, in a more dangerous and deadly aspect, by insensate waste in warlike preparation, which retards cruelly and unnecessarily the world's recovery from chaotic conditions engendered by war," Sir Robert declared. "This waste," he went on, "the child of fear, suspicion and hatred, has spread like a creeping paralysis through the nations. Hitherto the League's efforts to abate it have been in vain, not through lack of earnest and patient endeavor, but by reason of humanity's imperfections. The world still fails to enthrone right above force."

Sir Robert Borden always has been a staunch supporter of the League of Nations and has done everything that has been possible for him to do to further its work. His Canadianism is his mentor; and he always has before him the example of Canada and the United States—140,000,000 people—living side by side peacefully. The two countries have their differences; but they settle them without any sabre-rattling. It will always be so.

The attack on economic nationalism which Sir Robert launched in his address is not a surprising one. He is now a business man—not a politician in the general acceptance of the term. He is the president of the Canadian branch of Barclay's Bank, an institution with a world-wide reputation, and he, like any other business man, knows that the banking business, if it is to flourish, must depend upon the free flow of trade between nation and nation.

When Sir Robert Borden turned over the leadership of the Conservative party to Mr. Meighen in the immediate post-war years the trade of Canada was double what it is to-day. Sir Robert naturally desires the Dominion—and other countries—to return to fiscal sanity.

BOTH OPPRESSIVE

THE WORST THING ABOUT COMMUNISM is the fact that it can be practically adopted without the establishment of a dictatorship which would overthrow representative institutions and suppress freedom of speech and action by the public. But that is not the chief objection lodged against it by many interests at the other end of the social and economic road. They fear the economic readjustment either Communism or Socialism or any other kind of radicalism would impose in its relation to the redistribution of wealth. They would much prefer Fascism for their peculiar purposes, yet in every vital particular in respect of the rights of the individual, in the maintenance of democratic institutions, Fascism is at least as bad as Communism, and as a threat to the peace of the world it is even worse.

The only safe ground is that which lies between the two. As far as Canada is concerned, while there is room for widespread reforms in our whole economic and social structure, there is not the slightest possibility of either Communism or Fascism becoming dominant here, unless we fail to realize that these movements arise mainly from the extortionate practices of special privilege and the subordination of social justice rather than from tub thumpings at home and puerile propaganda from abroad.

IT CAME HOME TO DIE

OF ALL THE DISPATCHES WHICH came over the wires yesterday perhaps the following stirred more human hearts than any other:

Kingsville, Ont., Nov. 20.—Blood dripping from its wounded side, a Canada goose came home to Jack Miner's bird sanctuary to die in Mrs. Miner's arms. Barely able to walk, the goose staggered through the gateway and marched up the walk to the house and died as Mrs. Miner held it.

The wound showed the bird had been shot, but how far it had flown to the sanctuary could not be ascertained.

A few years ago another bird wounded by hunters staggered to the steps of the Miner home and died after flying about seven miles.

The dispatch speaks for itself. When Jack Miner "flies" to his ethereal home the world of feathered creatures will lose a great friend.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

PLAIN SPEAKING ON CHARITY

The Detroit News

Detroit ought to be ashamed of herself. "Out of a million and a half people," says the Community Fund, "only 11,900 gave as much as $10 last year. The very rich and the very poor gave almost 90 per cent of the total amount contributed. Of the several hundred thousand salaried workers earning $2,500 or more, and getting it regularly, only 3,856 gave as much as $25. Because of lack of funds, the seventy-seven children's homes, hospitals, free clinics, visiting nurses and other organizations dependent on the Community Fund for support were forced to operate on little more than a third of their normal budgets last year." That is a situation which ought to make tens of thousands bow their heads in shame.

THE WORST KIND OF GAMBLING

The Ottawa Citizen

Quite plainly much of this grain exchange business is iniquitous. It should be criminal to speculate in food supplies. The excuse for wheat speculation is dishonest. In most of the transactions no actual wheat is bought or sold. The alleged buyer never owns one bushel of wheat, nor does the alleged seller really own any wheat for sale. It is the old game of buying on margin without anything being bought. The country would suffer far less harm by allowing lotteries and bookmaking on race tracks. Gamblers at the races may never own a horse but at least they see the horses run. Gamblers through the Winnipeg grain exchange neither own wheat nor ever see one bushel. They do injury, however, by robbing the producers when prices are depressed. In this instance, an injury to the agricultural industry is an injury to the whole of Canada. The government may be helpless in the face of the operations of international finance in London, Paris and New York, but it should be possible to stop the international operators from using the Winnipeg grain exchange to rich money out of Canada.

Loose Ends

A letter to a gentleman in Ottawa, who can yet save us a lot of trouble—a frank gentleman who heaves his follies at the world—and a new danger for our poor soldiers and sailors.

By H. B. W.

A LETTER

Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, K.C., P.C., Ottawa, Ont.:

Dear Sir,—The intimation that your government may dispense with the empty formality of by-elections for your new cabinet ministers has been greeted with keen satisfaction by the villagers of this place. If this intimation is correct, your government is to be thanked for saving the country a large and needless expense. As you no doubt have already reasoned, the results of such by-elections are obvious beforehand, as they were in Ontario. Any reasonable man must agree, therefore, that it is quite unnecessary to hold them.

But do you think, sir, you are going far enough? The cancellation of by-elections for new cabinet ministers unquestionably would be a step in the right direction, but why halt a useful movement there? Why not cancel the necessity for another general election? That would be a real economy, sir, think, sir, of the amount of excitement, stress, nervous strain it would save the public.

Why, even now in this place, sir, men are scrambling about trying to get themselves nominated for Parliament. The Liberal Party already has rushed into the fray, a good year before the enemy has appeared. There are conspiracies and intrigues in the Conservative camp to get rid of Mr. Plunkett, who was acceptable when no one else wanted to tackle a forlorn hope. The C.C.F. is scouring the countryside for a candidate. And all this trouble and expense could be avoided, hundreds of good men could be saved disappointment and disillusionment at the polls, if your government, by a fine humanitarian act, would simply call off the general elections.

You would be right in assuming that an election would probably do no good anyway. After what happened at the last general elections in Canada, when you were elected, you know better than anyone, sir, that the electors cannot be trusted to make a sensible decision at the polls. And they won't be satisfied after they have decided. They will only clamor for another election four years hence, and may want to change the government again.

As you have shown by your administration, you realize that Canada's electorate is possibly the most backward in the world and will stand for almost anything. The American electorate, having no appreciation of human dignity and deference to the masses, exposes its country to humiliating congressional investigations, and when scandalous abuses have been revealed, it publicly clamors for the offender to be punished. But apart from the unfortunate Stevens inquiry which, as you say, was quite accidental and without your consent before, you could stop it apart from that, the record of this country in the depression has been perfect.

We have never exposed our inner character to humiliating public view. We have maintained, in the face of a mad world, a perfect composure which has even deceived ourselves. And I am confident that, with the complete utility of the British North America Act to help you, it will be possible to avoid any action as a result of the Stevens investigation which would mar that unblemished record.

It had been widely rumored that you were of such a character that you would lift your head high and resign and go down in history as a sportsman. The Canadian people should be profoundly grateful to one who, despite his almost insuperable impulse to rush out and resign, is yet willing to cling patriotically to office and save the country from its ruin.

FRANK CENT

MR. H. G. WELLS, who has spent most of his life making new fashions in civilization, has lately set a new fashion in autobiography which, if widely followed, is likely to fill this dismal world with new horrors. I haven't read it in the original yet, but the reviews of Mr. Wells' autobiography show it to be grisly enough. Apparently his idea is to get ahead of the biographers who, fifty years hence, could be counted upon to dredge up all his indiscretions, to ransack all his private cupboard for family skeletons. Mr. Wells has saved them the trouble. He has dredged up everything, he has exposed himself to the world in a manner which some might call naked and others might call obscene. All Mr. Wells' love affairs, which apparently have been as numerous as his theories of world progress, all his marital difficulties, all his infidelities, are proclaimed to the world with a frankness which is a little appalling.

Indeed, if all the great men of our time are going to have themselves, their follies and sins and imperfections at the public in this brutal fashion, the world is going to be a pretty ghastly place to live in. And if the other great men of our time turn out to be, on exposure, like Mr. Wells, perhaps it is just as well that we should proceed on Mr. Wells' plan which calls, as you know, for the total destruction of our civilization about the year 1950. Probably our civilization needs burying.

POOR SOLDIERS

I SEE," SAID MRS. NOGGIN, deposing herself and four dozen eggs and two dead ducks in my car this morning. "We're in the Old Country they got a new law to stop sedition. I don't rightly know what sedition might be, but the way my boy explains it to me—'a bein' a plumber understands sedition and all that—the way my boy explains it to me, sedition is when you vote agin' the government wot is in office. Every time a government gets so it can't win an election, it begins to see that the country is gettin' seditionist, my boy says."

"Hanyways, accordin' to this new sedition law they've got in the Old Country, they can search your 'ouse any old time and see if you've got any sedition 'lyin' around. What they're after, so my boy says, is any books or papers wot would seduce the soldiers and sailors. From wot I've read, in novels and all, soldiers and sailors ain't so 'ard to seduce, but the government aims to perfect 'em from evil influences. Many book that might seduce 'em and make 'em stop wantin' to go to war, that's sedition, and if they find it in yer 'ouse you can be put in jail for seducin' 'em, even if you ain't, because if you got a book like that, you might."

"Many old book might seduce a soldier or a sailor, you know. Most any book or newspaper you read these days is liable to make a man think that war don't pay after all. The way I see it, yer liable to be put in jail if you 'ave The Times or The Colonist around, even if you only use 'em, like we do, to get garbage from Mrs. Boggs for the chickens. They're liable to seduce some poor soldier or sailor."

FRESHNESS

Just where a narrow, sandy lane
 Winds down to meet the sea,
 Between a crumbling wall of rock
 And one gauged clear free,
 I pause a moment, though I long
 To greet the tumbling waves.
 Some pleasant sight upon my mind
 This lonely spot engraves.
 Some boy who knows how far, how near?
 I shall walk here again.
 The sky was as vivid still,
 As loud the surf's refrain.
 I shall walk here and in my heart
 Such fervent joy will rise.
 This space 'twixt rock and tree will seem
 The path to Paradise.
 Through whom and when I cannot guess,
 Save this: that destiny
 With happy look upon his path
 Will wait some day for me!

EMPTY PHRASES

To the Editor:—Last night a friend and myself went to hear Dr. Lyle Telford speak at the Chamber of Commerce and a lot of windy verbiage it was. Now a constructive idea in it; feeble jokes and blowing his own horn. The discourse ended with a long poem which we at the back couldn't make any sense of, on account of the rate at which it was gabbed. "No time to answer questions," he says. "Will answer them at the close of the overflow I'm off to address." So off we went to the overflow, for what we wanted to hear was why the C.C.F. had done nothing more than the Liberals to help unemployment. After the worthy doctor had let off a little more steam the meeting was thrown open to questions. Up came a woman and asked, "In the event of the Liberals being elected in the federal election, what is the C.C.F. going to do in the lifetime of the next parliament to relieve the unemployment situation?"

"Go on educating the people," said Dr. Telford, "while they are taking their medicine."

"And are we to watch our children's minds being embittered and their characters ruined through being denied the simple luxuries of life?"

"Yes," answered the doctor. "It is the people's own stupidity if they put in the Liberals and whatever comes to them serves them right."

"But the people who are suffering voted C.C.F. to a man," insisted the lady, "and those C.C.F. members returned represent thousands of people who trusted them and just now they should shame, unemployment their chief concern."

"No," said the doctor, "unemployment is not the most important thing. Educating the people is."

Well, sir, if that is C.C.F. it is useless for Canada. What we want is a party which will make unemployment its chief concern. Individual members, like Guy Sheppard, are doing good work but as a body they are only out for propaganda.

"Who is that lady?" we asked, and were told she was the lady candidate for Seniors who was rejected by the Socialist Party of Canada. That in itself told us a story and we went home wiser men, with our disillusionment in the C.C.F. complete. What we would like to ask Mr. Guy Sheppard, has become of his People's Movement? After building it up, couldn't he stick to it? The C.C.F. has had its chance and lost it.

Come along, Guy, come out of it and give us a lead.

They're All Necessary Foods—But All Acid-Forming. Hence Most of Us Have "Acid Stomach" at Times. Easy Now to Relieve

Medical authorities now tell us that much of the so-called "indigestion" from which so many of us suffer is really acid indigestion. A condition brought on by the acid-forming part of our diet.

Starches, meats, sweets, too much of such necessary foods form excess acids—felt in annoying pain, "gas" after eating.

But there is now a simple way to relieve this, as your doctor will tell you... often in minutes!

All you do is take a little Phillips' Milk of Magnesia after meals. This acts almost at once to neutralize the stomach acidity that brings on the trouble. You have fewer headaches, upsets, and pain. You "forget you have a stomach!"

Try this just once! Take either the familiar liquid "Phillips'" or the convenient new Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets. But be sure you get the Genuine PHILLIPS' Milk of Magnesia.

Also in Tablet Form: Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets are now on sale at all drug stores everywhere. Each tiny tablet is the equivalent of a teaspoonful of the famous liquid "Phillips'" Milk of Magnesia.

little by religious controversy. He can congratulate himself that the Rt. Hon. B. B. Bennett, our Prime Minister, is a religious man who is safe to assume daily petitions, the giver of every good gift for his daily bread—and other blessings. A very beautiful thought, although of little comfort to those needy veterans who have suffered many grievous, cruel and unaccountable deprivations under the present administration.

The essential thing is that the legion shall receive united support from all veterans, so that politicians can be effectively reminded of their services.

There is a tendency to-day, due perhaps to the growing deterioration of war, which all reasonable people share, so belittled and decried the services and sacrifices of the soldiers.

Some politicians even go so far as to deny that the veterans rendered any useful service whatever!

This denial, as I pointed out in a former letter, is openly expressed by the leaders of the C.O.P. Party in British Columbia. Here, again, while we can feel confident that "Get Robert Connell is a man of punctilious religious observance, we ex-soldiers cannot feel so sure of his sense of justice.

GERM AHOY!

To the Editor:—There is a very common error perpetuated from day to day. It is that of making definite statements concerning unproved theories—and proclaiming them as facts.

The theory I particularly refer to is that which states that germs are the cause of disease. One finds it alluded to in novels, advertisements, journalistic outpourings, and from the mouths of certain medical and scientific propagandists. Some protagonists of the unproved theory may be excused on the plea of ignorance repeating what they have picked up or have been deliberately taught. For others there is no excuse. By the method of persistent repetition they are trying to hammer their theory into the public conscience. The theory is a profitable one and not infrequently those benefactors who have advocated it well have been handed out prizes, positions and honors.

We are asked to believe that human life is so constituted that it is a perpetual prey to deadly germs of disease and to destruction within itself. Scientifically, there is nothing to prove that this is the plan of life. "I must have picked up a germ somehow" is so common a remark that it is obviously "parrot-talk." It is more reasonable to understand that "disease" is the result of unhealthy conditions. Better modes of living, better housing, water and sanitation have played the chief role in improved public health. Infectious diseases—take smallpox for example—have practically disappeared under improvements which are more desirable than the dangerous, but lucrative practices of inoculation and vaccination. England is not the only country where reformers and humanitarians of greater vision are vigorously protesting what is known as "preventive medicine." Preventive medicine, by the way, involves most cruel treatment of animals. That is enough to condemn it.

The germ is not the bogey it is proclaimed to be, but in all probability a beneficial agent, or scavenger. We need not worry about its being in the air, in food, on door handles and other obvious places, waiting to devour and destroy.

There are persons who never wish to search the truth. People who prefer to walk in darkness rather than in the light. People who find the road of least resistance the most comfortable to travel and would rather accept any information that is handed out to them than study for themselves. Such individuals are easy prey of the ignorant, and of those who have some axe to grind.

It is only in recent years that the word "theory" has been dissociated from the word "germ."

Dr. Chowry Muthu, famous authority on tuberculosis in England, gave the germ theory a heavy blow some years ago. He pointed out that the so-called germ of tuberculosis is never found in the early stages of the disease. He supports the theory that germs are not the cause of disease, but the result, acting as scavengers to clear up morbid material. One cannot accuse a fireman of causing a conflagration because he is on the scene of the fire. J. B. Fraser, M.D., (Toronto), and other medical men have shown that millions of germs commonly associated with various diseases, can be swallowed with food, rubbed round the tonsils, throat and turbinated bones without any ill effect whatever to those experimenting upon themselves. We continue to confuse germs of fermentation, however, with so-called germs of disease. So little is known really of the chemistry of the body that ex cathedra statements by self-styled "scientific men" are merely misleading.

NO PARTY PRIDGAL SON

To the Editor:—In a news item appearing in Tuesday's Victoria Times, it is stated that I attended and voted at the Liberal nominating convention on Monday night, that I had returned to the Liberal fold and was warmly welcomed at the convention.

So that there may be no misunderstanding, I must state that I was invited to go, and did so out of sheer curiosity.

Not being a place or office-seeker, I could not become a member of a party which cannot formulate, and does not intend, any effective plan which will eradicate mass poverty in an age of plenty.

In my view, there is no difference between Conservatism and Liberalism, except names, use of catchwords for consumption of a glib public, and methods of abusing each other.

We are now in the sixth year of the great depression, and during this period in Canada we have had both Conservative and Liberal governments. Both parties have proved themselves equally inefficient to tackle the problems which confront us, consequently both parties will have to disappear.

Any party without a definite plan can only be described as organized opportunism.

LEAGUE NEEDS MORE SUPPORT

Mrs. H. P. Plumptre Says Work of Geneva Body Not a Failure

Failure of the Geneva Disarmament Conference was attributed to lack of support of public opinion rather than because of any weaknesses in the League of Nations itself, Mrs. H. P. Plumptre told a meeting of the local branch of the League Society in the Memorial Hall yesterday evening.

Mrs. Plumptre paralleled the case for the League with the operation of the lighting system in a house. Electric fixtures were not scrapped in a house when the lights did not come on because the current was turned off. Thus in the case of the League, the current of public opinion in favor of disarmament had been turned off but the machinery of the League was still quite good.

She alluded to the League's opposition as being "strong enough to keep the current of public opinion from being turned on."

The speaker was convinced that international friendships and goodwill were encouraged by these international conferences of the League.

In referring to the work of the League, she claimed its efforts in the suppression of drug and the white slave traffic were symbolic of what it could accomplish.

CHANGE IN GENEVA

Mrs. Plumptre pictured the old and new Geneva. First, it had been a relic of wartime with battlements and towers it had always been prepared for offensive and defensive purposes. Now, however, it was a city of peace.

Measures for the tranquility of the nations were carried out from year to year. Three hundred treaties enacted between nations during the last fifteen years were registered at Geneva, she said.

Peace efforts of the international labor office, whose doors were supplied from Canada, were referred to. She also spoke of the work of some Canadians at Geneva, including Tom Moore, of the international labor office, Mary McClelland of Barna, Ont., in the information bureau, and Mac Eastman.

While the League itself operated to manufacture peace, its work was not confined solely to this, the speaker continued. Among its other activities were the caring for international welfare, health, and suppression of the retrograde influences, and in this connection she observed that if the League could get nations to sacrifice national profits in the interests of international welfare and harmony it was certainly moving forward.

Many persons felt the League was not working as fast as they hoped, but Mrs. Plumptre said, and out that its work must be regarded as a white and permanent process which aimed to achieve its objective on a foundation of co-operation, arbitration and by having its permanent organizations for the manufacture of peace in the secretariat and in its annual meeting of the League.

FAITH OF COURT

Failure of the court of international justice had been prophesied by Lord Reading on the grounds that no judge of the court would be strong enough to vote against his own nation, she said. Yet the strength of this court had been demonstrated in a dispute in North Africa between Great Britain and France, which was unanimously given against France, despite the fact that one judge was a Frenchman.

Mrs. Plumptre attended a meeting of the League council on September 18, 1931, when a quarrel between China and Japan was being considered and she told of the operation of that body.

Critics of the League too often overlooked what it had accomplished and criticized what it had not done, she said.

Sir Richard Lake presided over the meeting and votes of thanks were moved by A. S. Averill and J. W. Gibson.

PENDER ISLAND

Through the efforts of Pro. E. E. Vinen, who recently came from Vancouver to make his permanent home here, a choral society has been formed and officers elected. H. G. Scott is president, Mrs. F. Moore treasurer, Mr. Rodwell secretary, and Miss Hilda Logan librarian. Rehearsals commenced this week.

The Otter Bay herring saltery closed for the season on Thursday last after one month's operation. In on because the current was turned off. Thus in the case of the League, the current of public opinion in favor of disarmament had been turned off but the machinery of the League was still quite good.

URGES TARIFF POLICY CHANGE

Farmers Hit By Present System, Says Candidate in Saanich Address

Purchasing power of the farmers of western Canada was depreciating at the vanishing point owing to the high tariffs on manufactured articles, Alan Chambers, Liberal candidate in Nanaimo federal riding, said at a meeting of Ward Six Saanich Liberals in Mount Newton High School yesterday evening.

Mr. Chambers cited figures to show that the Dominion tariff policy resulted in a net loss annually to B.C. alone of $19,000,000, which was equivalent to the entire provincial government income for the year. This amount represented the difference between the extra prices paid for manufactured articles and the tariff benefits accruing to some industries of the province.

The flour export of Canada had dropped in 1933 to the lowest point since 1914, he said. Agricultural exports dropped from $330,000,000 in 1930 to $195,000,000 in 1933. These were the things causing industrial unemployment and the only remedy was to lower the tariff barriers and clear the channels for freer trading.

Norman Whitaker, M.P.P. for Saanich, also spoke, discussing B.C.'s case for better terms in Confederation. Since entering the union, he said, B.C. had received approximately $20,000,000 in compensation for surrendering its right over customs and excise duties. In the same period Ottawa collected in taxation from this province close to $600,000,000.

Two basketball games were played Saturday evening in Charter's Hall. In the first game the local girls won from the Luxton girls by a one point lead, the score being nine to eight, and in the second game the Sooke seniors came out in the long end of a twenty-four to sixty score against the Luxton seniors. Following the games dancing to Bob Townsend's orchestra was enjoyed.

Baton Rouge, La., Nov. 21.—Huey Long plans to run for the United States presidency in 1936 on a third party ticket.

The United States senator from Louisiana regards himself as the "kind of president this country needs" and hopes to sweep himself into the White House on an anti-Roosevelt platform.

Convinced President Roosevelt's popularity cannot survive for two more years, Long now is laying the groundwork for his campaign in Louisiana. He hopes to perfect a model government in this state that he can take before the country as an example of what he would do with the national administration. He does not give serious consideration to the probability of the Republicans returning to power in 1936.

Huey regards the recent amazing session of the Legislature, when he had forty-four bills passed in less than a week, as a triumph for the state, as just another move toward realization of his presidential ambitions.

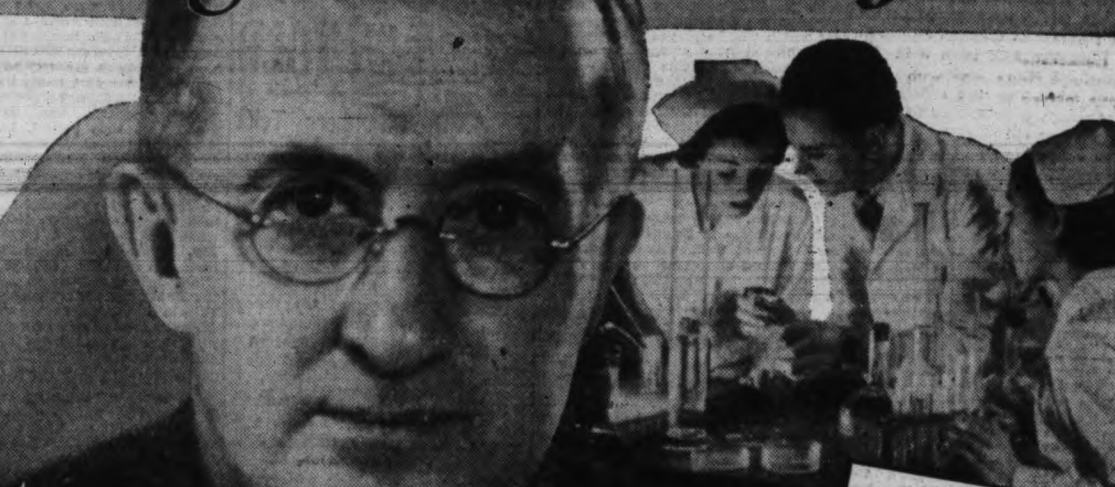

APPEALS TO YOUTH

Long's political play is to the young voters. "I don't care nothing about the old fogies and moss backs," he said. "I am for the plain, honest, thinking man and the generations that are coming."

He feels the student body of Louisiana State University, his particular pride and joy, is with him almost to a man and he hopes it is indicative of other college student bodies throughout the country. They, as Long points out, will be voters in 1936.

BRIDE-ELECT IS LOSING WEIGHT

Preparations For Royal Wedding Prove Hard on Princess Marina

Associated Press
Paris, Nov. 21.—Princess Marina of Greece could give some proven advice to young women who would reduce—prepare to marry a royal prince. The princess, who left France to-day to be married to the Duke of Kent November 29 in London, has lost so much weight from preparing for the wedding that last minute alterations had to be made in her trousseau.

Social obligations, visits with her friends, and shopping have so filled her days and nights that she has lacked time to eat and sleep properly, a friend disclosed to-day, and as a result she has become so slender a number of her dresses have had to be refitted before they were packed for shipment across the channel.

Meanwhile, in London, last minute touches, under the personal supervision of Queen Mary, were being given historic old Buckingham Palace in preparation for the arrival of her future daughter-in-law and other guests.

The three-room suite which the royal bride-to-be will occupy on the second floor of the palace, received the special attention of the Queen, and with her own hands she will arrange banks of flowers—mainly chrysanthemums—in the rooms, only a few hours before Marina's party arrives from Paris.

Associated Press
Skopje, Yugoslavia, Nov. 21.—Serbian Orthodox priests began a movement to-day to canonize the assassinated King Alexander.

The priests said the king's tragic death at Marseilles, France, made him a martyr to the nation, and that his services to his country in establishing harmony among different racial groups entitled him to a place among the national saints.

Your Baby and Mine
By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

"DON'T HURT" IS RULE BABIES LEARN SLOWLY

It is too much to expect that small children will learn immediately the difference between painful and pleasant attentions. Children bite their playthings with a complete absence of any noticeable animosity and no one is more surprised than they at the adult commotion such actions engender.

TWO-YEAR-OLD ASSAULTS INFANT

My leaflet, "Children's Quarrels," goes into this subject in detail. You may have it by asking for it. Send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Myrtle Meyer Eldred in care of the "Your Baby and Mine" department of this newspaper with your request.

Mrs. F. K. writes: "How would you handle this problem, Mrs. Eldred? My two-year-old son has a very sweet disposition, though he is very active and inquisitive and needs an eye on him. When I do explain he listens and understands. But not when we go visiting."

"At one friend's is a younger baby. He stands sweetly by the bedside and without a moment's warning makes a quick grab at baby's face, digs his fingers into baby's eyes or pulls his hair."

"He never shows the least sign of regret for this behavior and repeats it as soon as he gets a chance."

HE DOESN'T WHIMPER

"I take him for a walk and he sees a smaller child he wants to run after him and hit him. He is not a noisy child. He can take hard bumps and spankings without a whimper. If I separate him from the other children in a moment he is playing and laughing as if nothing had happened."

"He is playing and someone grabs a toy he bites or scratches them. He plays fine with children two or three years older. I shall be so grateful for a solution."

It isn't only children who try to engage attention by such methods, the adult who greets his friends with a hard slap on the back belongs to the same school.

PLAYMATES HIS OWN AGE

The boy may be jealous of the smaller baby because you will give it loving notice. He may be used to receiving this same kind of treatment from older children; he plays with. You say he is used to spankings. They tell a child's finer feelings about "hitting" and make your words hypocritical. Do to him as you would have him to do to others. Also expect that within a few months he'll have an increasing understanding of the meaning of pain. His biting is his only way at present of handling social situations that otherwise would be beyond him. Older children probably take advantage of him.

Some children of his own age to play with and instant separation from them if he misbehaves, this is the most desirable education for him.

MIX HUGE CAKE
800 Pounds of Empire Ingredients in Royal Wedding Cake

Associated Press
Edinburgh, Nov. 21.—Scottish bakers are hard at work mixing 800 pounds of sugar and spice and everything nice to go into the huge wedding cake for the Duke of Kent and Princess Marina of Greece in London November 29.

The work of completing the cake requires six weeks in all.

It will be a thing of beauty on its solid silver stand, looming nine feet high, as the largest single item in the Buckingham Palace festivities attendant on the Westminster Abbey ceremony.

The cake is so large it is being made in four sections, to be shipped to the London branch of the firm, where the finishing touches will be applied. There the sections will be assembled and the icing done.

The decorations will be in natural flowers selected by the Duke and Princess.

All the ingredients are empire products. Inside will be the usual "luck sixpence."

A.Y.P.A.
Arrangements for holding a rally service for all A.Y.P.A. members and friends in Victoria on Sunday, Dec. 9, were made at the regular meeting of the Victoria & District Local Council Thursday evening in St. John's schoolroom.

The service will be conducted at St. John's and run under the auspices of the Council in conjunction with the regular Fellowship Hour. The committee in charge is: Rev. Canon P. A. Chadwick, John Hooper, Ernie Gray, Jim Orendale, S. C. Hawkins, Dave Pite and Len Dixon. The idea of such services is to foster Christian fellowship and plans are being formed to hold these rallies regularly at the different churches.

It is requested that resolutions to be presented at the annual conference in February be in the hands of the provincial secretary, P. C. Bain, Vancouver, not later than December 15. It is hoped by this method to obtain greater efficiency in regard to solving the vital problems facing young people's work to-day.

Ted Bissenden, badminton connoisseur, presented a report on the progress being made re forming teams and arranging schedules.

Ernie Gray was elected honorary secretary of basketball and anyone wishing information is requested to get in touch with Mr. Gray at once. It was agreed that each branch would be responsible for any support it could offer the Columbia Coast Mission.

A letter was received from Ontario, thanking Victoria for its greetings, and stating the conference had been a great success and an unbounding spirit of fellowship shown throughout.

Several minor matters were also discussed. The next meeting of the council will be held on December 13 owing to the holiday season.

St. Andrew's W.M.S.—The regular monthly meeting of St. Andrew's Presbyterian W.M.S. was held on Monday afternoon in the lecture room. The devotional part of the meeting was taken by Mrs. J. A. Kennedy and Mrs. M. C. Puller, after which Mrs. Owen Campbell as guest speaker was introduced. In a very capable manner she told of the pioneer missionaries from the eastern division, which includes Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island and Cape Breton, and mentioned some of the present missionaries in W.M.S. fields and asked that prayers be offered for them. She also emphasized home mission workers in general. After a vote of thanks to Mrs. Campbell, a short business session followed, with Mrs. R. A. Brown in the chair. The meeting closed by all singing the Doxology.

LUNCHEON TRAY ENABLES CHILD TO EAT WHERE MOTHER WORKS

By MARY E. DAGUE

For some time my small son's lunch hour had to be different from that of the rest of the family because of his school schedule. This meant he must eat alone and he hated it until I hit on the plan of serving him on a tray. The idea was a god-send.

You see, the lonely child has little appetite and resents taking time off from more important things to eat. A tray gives him company for it can be carried wherever a mother's work may take her. If she is in the kitchen, the tray may be placed at one corner of the kitchen table. Or a corner of the sewing table or a sunny window in any room is a pleasant place to eat if there is cheerful company and conversation. The tray also does away with the need for keeping the dining-room table set for an hour or so between meals.

A fair-sized oblong tray, small and light enough for a child to carry but strong and firm is needed and dishes of shapes that will not upset easily.

The problem of keeping foods hot and appetizing I have solved by the use of small covered casseroles. These can be placed in a pan of hot water to heat the food easily and evenly without danger of burning or drying out. Individual containers or molds are a great convenience, too.

The luncheon for one has an important point in its favor—it provides opportunity to cater to individual need and taste. The child who is a bit finicky and tends to underweight may be tempted by favorite and nourishing foods, perhaps too expensive for the family table and the hearty appetites of robust children. He may have an egg instead of plain milk, cream instead of top milk over his baked apple or pudding and a broiled lamb chop.

One hot dish should be included in the school child's luncheon. A cream soup can be quickly reheated. If baked potatoes were served to the family the late luncheon may be mashed and seasoned and put back in the potato skin to be reheated when wanted.

SOME MENUS

A few days ago I had a letter from a mother asking for menus suitable for a boy of eight. These menus are planned for the child from nine to nine.

Cream of corn soup, toast sticks, carrot, straw, rolled oats cookies, lemonade or orange juice.

Creamed lamb on toast, lettuce sandwich, baked apple, cocoa made with milk.

Stuffed baked potato, hearts of celery, cinnamon toast, egg nog.

Cream of tomato soup, toasted crackers, peanut butter and lettuce sandwich, baked pear, ginger cookie, milk.

Egg poached in milk on toast sliced menu with sugar and cream, molasses cookie, grape juice.

TO-MORROW'S MENU

Breakfast: Stewed prunes, cereal, cream, baked omelet, graham muffins, milk, coffee.

Luncheon: Noodle soup, cottage cheese and carrot sandwiches, apple sauce, ginger bread, milk, tea.

Dinner: Planked hamburger steak with vegetables, cabbage and grapefruit salad, orange tapioca pudding, milk, coffee.

J. N. Cartier, New Vice-chairman, Has Had Wide Experience

Canadian Press
Montreal, Nov. 21.—Jacques Narbonne Cartier, whose appointment as vice-chairman of the Canadian Radio Commission has been announced by Hon. Alfred Durneau, Minister of Marine, is one of the pioneers of wireless communication.

Mr. Cartier's association with radio dates back to 1908, when he joined the Marconi Wireless Telegraph Company as a wireless operator.

He supervised installation of wireless on the first sailing fleet out of Newfoundland to carry that equipment.

His work took him to many places in the world before he went to New York to enter newspaper work. He served with several daily newspapers in New York and Montreal.

When war broke out in 1914 he joined the engineers and his talents as a wireless expert were soon recognized. He became supervisor of wireless communication between airplanes and batteries while under transfer to the Royal Flying Corps. Later he achieved a brilliant record in counter-espionage with the intelligence service of the British forces.

Mr. Cartier was formerly Conservative organizer in the province of Quebec.

ST. AIDAN'S Y.P.S.

The young people of St. Aidan's held their regular meeting in the hall. A sing-song was enjoyed by all, after which they were privileged to see the rehearsal of the play, "The Color Line."

The Clue of The Forgotten Murder

By CARLETON KENDRAKE

Copyright 1934, NEA Service Inc.

A car swung around a side street behind them.

"Pull into the curb as though we were stopping," Griff told the driver. "Let that car behind us get ahead."

The car pulled in to the curb. The other car ran on ahead. Griff got out and stood by the side of the cab, his head bent forward, his right hand in his trouser pocket as though reaching for change.

The other car all smoothly by with constantly accelerated speed. It was a grey Cadillac coupe with a dented left rear fender.

"Quick!" Griff shouted, springing to the running board of the taxicab. "Go after that car. Give it everything you've got."

He reached to the shoulder holster which was suspended under his left armpit and pulled out a heavy calibre automatic. Bleeker excitedly tugged the gun which the criminologist had given him from his hip pocket.

The cab went away through the gears and into quick acceleration. The big Cadillac ahead was still gaining, overhauling the first cab in which the girl rode.

"Paster" shouted. "I'm giving her all she's got," the driver said.

The cab was built for quick acceleration in traffic and, momentarily, it increased its speed, at first holding its own with the Cadillac, then creeping up on it just as the Cadillac was creeping up on the first cab.

"Step on it!" the criminologist implored frantically. "He's got too big a lead."

The cab driver said nothing. Griff, standing with one foot on the running board, clinging to the rod of the windshield support with his left hand, held the heavy calibre automatic in his right.

The grey Cadillac drew abreast of the first taxicab. It swerved in to the right, until its right running board was abreast of the running board of the cab. The lone figure in the driver's seat shifted its position.

"Look out!" yelled Griff. The first cab slowed. Flame spat from the side of the grey Cadillac. Griff pressed the trigger of his weapon. The automatic crashed out three shots. The taxicab in which Stella Mockley was riding was braked to a sudden stop. The grey Cadillac swept on, wobbling slightly. There were two flashes of fire from the Cadillac, two more thundering shots from the criminologist's automatic. The Cadillac swerved sharply, skidded a scorch, a sidewalk, crashed through a shrubbery, swung drunkenly back to the street, slammed against a lighting fixture and went over on its side with a crash.

Resuscitation Successes Told

Nearly 500 "Dead" Persons in New York and Chicago
Revived in Two Years

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

New York, Nov. 21.—Nearly 500 persons apparently dead have been brought back to life in New York and Chicago by two of the scientific instruments recently developed by physicians.

Many of these 500 were quiet literally "dead" by ordinary tests. A few of them newborn babies whose bodies had been said aside with the last hope given up.

The 500 were restored not only to life, but to health. They are the answer of organized medicine to spectacular ideas of reviving dogs, persons who committed suicide, and executed criminals. They are the practical application of the same knowledge which is being used for the more sensational experiments.

The immediate objective is an annual company of "dead" about equaling the number of automobile fatalities. It is believed that as many as 50,000 in this group could be saved yearly by the new service reached then soon enough.

These persons die of more than a dozen diseases and accidents, including caron monoxide poisoning, electric shock, poison gas, drowning, anesthesia, infections, infantile paralysis, mechanical suffocation, pulmonary complications, atelectasis (lung collapse), narcotic drug poisoning and fire.

About 200 of those brought back to life here and in Chicago were taken with the new device, a gold needle which stimulates heart beats with electrical impulses at the rate of 30 to 120 a minute.

USED FOR TWO YEARS

This needle was brought out two years ago by the Winton Foundation of Asphyxiated, a fact upon which it grew out of the fact that up to 1930 about sixty persons, apparently dead, had been brought back to life by hypodermic injections directly into their hearts.

Adrenalin was frequently used, but even a "shot" of caffeine similarly given restored some of the "dead."

The other new device for restoring the "dead" is an insufflator, sponsored by the Society for the Prevention of Asphyxiated, a fact upon which it grew out of the fact that up to 1930 about sixty persons, apparently dead, had been brought back to life by hypodermic injections directly into their hearts.

secured a duplicate of such a car, kept it stored at a place near Lampson's headquarters. When Shillingby had shadowed Lampson, to this neighborhood, Cathy drove up to the curb. Shillingby, recognizing the man who had employed him, naturally was not suspicious. It gave Cathy an opportunity to shoot him and escape.

"And Decker," asked Bleeker, "the man who was a witness?"

"Was an innocent cog in the murder machine. Of course, Cathy needed a witness who could testify to the fact of the coup. So he trailed Shillingby, who was trailing Lampson, until a pedestrian was encountered. Then Cathy worked his prearranged plan. He tried to keep his face concealed, but a gust of wind blew back the brim of his hat and gave Decker a glimpse of his features."

"Fisher was to take the name of Cathy, go to a hotel, register, keep an appointment as Cathy and cash a cheque. He went to the hotel, registered and cashed the cheque. But before he could keep the appointment he got playing around with Stella Mockley. They had a few drinks and the unexpected happened. Fisher was arrested. It became necessary for him eventually to assume the identity of Cathy with the police. That led to the publication of the story. Cathy had to make a gesture of suing for libel. He did not realize what would inevitably happen. The newspaper would start checking into his past."

"When that happened the men were in a panic. And there, gentlemen, is where we must give a tribute to Morden. Perhaps he stumbled upon the information. Perhaps he reasoned it out. I wish that I knew. I never will know. If he reasoned it out, he had the brain of a marvelous detective."

"We know that Morden took a taxi cab. That he went to Ninth and Central. That he went to Shillingby's office and asked questions. Undoubtedly, Morden was shadowed. That trip cost him his life. It was decided that Morden must die."

"They knew that Cathy would be suspected. Therefore, he must have an alibi. Fisher undoubtedly agreed to give him some medicine that would make him quite ill, so that he could be under the care of a doctor. That was Fisher's opportunity. He suddenly realized 'how much better off he would be if he could kill Cathy, stand in with Mrs. Malone, and milk Mrs. Cathy by blackmail."

"Fisher had been having Morden shadowed. Therefore, he had no difficulty locating him. Morden was waiting for Alice Lorton to come in. Fisher showed up and produced a key to the apartment. Morden recognized Fisher as the man who had been arrested and given the name of Cathy. Fisher clubbed Morden from behind, left the body in the apartment and slipped out. He had done both an attorney and a friend to her."

"In the meantime, the girl who had been with Fisher at the time he was arrested while impersonating Cathy became an important witness. Fisher undoubtedly intended to kill her, but he had her pretty much under his thumb. He wanted to get her to tell a false story before she died."

had probably been done for a reason. We may never know what that reason was. I was afraid that they would either murder the chauffeur or get him to skip out of the country for a large cash consideration. Therefore, I was anxious to hold him as a witness. The story, of course, which Stella Mockley told us about the mysterious conversation of Peter Malone over the telephone with the chauffeur at the Cathy residence, was made up out of so much whole cloth. She had been carefully coached in that story by Fisher. When she had told her story, Fisher wanted her removed. He telephoned her to take a taxi cab and met him at a certain place. Then he took out the grey Cadillac which had undoubtedly been stored in some private garage near the scene of the crime."

"He intended to kill the girl and the cab driver and make his escape. After that he would be in an impregnable position, with Mrs. Malone blackmailing the money from Mrs. Cathy and Fisher getting the lion's share of the money. You see, Cathy had the money. All Fisher had was the law practice."

"When did you first uncover all this?" Captain Mahoney asked.

"I should have known it much sooner," Griff said apologetically. "I realized what must have happened when I began to realize that the man out in the street was the identity of Cathy must have done so with Cathy's knowledge, consent and co-operation. Then I realized, of course, that it had been done to give Cathy an alibi only in the event he planned to commit a murder. I even thought back to remember if a murder had been committed at that exact time and remembered at once that Shillingby had been murdered at 10:15 o'clock."

"I knew at once what had happened. It remained to secure proof of that which had happened."

"The criminologist sighed as he got to his feet. "Doubtless," he said, "so far as you gentlemen are concerned the case is completely explained. As far as I am concerned, it will never be explained."

"If Morden merely obtained some tip," Bleeker said, "how could he have obtained it?"

Griff shook his head.

"I wish," he said softly, "that I could answer that question. The murder of Shillingby was the key to the entire mystery—and yet that murder was overlooked by all of us—all except Morden. He remembered the forgotten murder."

"Gentlemen, good morning."

THE END.

The Life Story of PRINCESS MARINA

creation has certainly endeared her to the hearts of them all.

SOUNDS LIKE FAIRY TALE

The royal romance sounds like one of those fairy tales the princesses have loved from her childhood, a story of love and faith and virtue rewarded. They loved, and married, and lived happily ever after, but the story has this advantage—it is a fairy tale that has come true.

Princess Marina was born, according to our (not the Greek) calendar, on November 30, 1907. Unlike her two sisters, Princess Olga (Princess Paul of Yugoslavia) and Princess Elizabeth (Countess Tsering-Jetterbach), she was not born at Tatoi, the simple, elegant summer residence near Athens which King George I of Greece purchased with his own money according to his own taste to be the family home.

Here the Greek royal family—one of the most united in the world, and particularly now, since their exile—met in the intimacy of family life.

Here they cast aside all etiquette and court ceremony, and here all the family fetes were celebrated: Tatoi is now, for them all, a home of many happy memories.

Princess Marina was born at her father's and mother's palace in Athens; the palace which was given to them, for they were both his relatives, by the late Emperor of Russia, as a wedding gift. Through-out the land this palace was known as a home of perfect taste, as the sketches which the prince made of this palace at the time will show. It was filled with art treasures of real value, and was the home of an artist.

At the same time, it was one of the most comfortable homes in Athens; it even had running water, a real luxury in the capital; and Prince Nicholas had the opportunity of bringing many modern customs into his new home. For example, it was he who started the custom of having clean-shaven servants.

Now the home of the prince, arranged with such care and taste, has been converted into an hotel de luxe, and doubt the rooms which Princess Marina occupied, and which were filled with her many treasures, will be sought after by tourists, and the price raised in consequence.

MOTHER'S LIFE IN DANGER

Unlike her sisters, whose coming into the world had been heralded with great joy, the arrival of Princess Marina was darkened by moments of great anguish; for the life of the royal mother was in danger. Both her grandparents, the Grand Duke and Duchess Vladimir of Russia, were present.

"She was indeed a dear child," said her father, "for she nearly cost her mother her life."

But to everyone's delight, the princess's life was spared, though for a long time she was too ill to take part in public life, and had to leave her little daughter to the care of an Englishwoman, Miss Fox, very carefully selected for the difficult task of educating the princess.

Miss Fox was kind, patient and firm. She loved her beautiful little charges, and her authority was loyally upheld by the prince and princess. She remained with the family until Princess Olga was married, and every summer she visits Yugoslavia to spend her holidays with them.

Miss Fox was not only devoted to her royal charges, but they were able to test her sterling worth in the days of their exile. She was no "fair-weather" friend of the royal family, and they reward her now, as they have rewarded all their friends in exile, with sentiments of sincere gratitude.

Prince Nicholas, as a boy, was taught by his father King George I that he must not expect as a royal prince to escape obligations and ask for favors. Quite on the contrary, because of his royal birth he had much to be forgiven by others, and the great privilege of royalty was to be of service to others.

On these principles the children were brought up, and at the same time schooled in the laws of modern hygiene, self-control, and fair play in sport, with the advantages at the same time of Greek culture.

During the Grand Duchess Helen's (Princess Nicholas's) illness, Princess Olga, who was three and a half years older, took upon herself to mother her little sister, a role which she has played ever since.

It was while accompanying Princess Olga to England where she comes frequently to bring her little son, Prince Alexander to school, that Princess Marina met Prince George, a personal friend of Prince Paul (now Prince-Regent) of Yugoslavia.

As a little girl, Princess Olga's greatest delight was to hold her little sister in her arms; she, like both her sisters, was passionately fond of babies, and told her father that when she grew up "she would have at least a hundred."

One day, when she had been particularly good, with Miss Fox beside her, Princess Olga was photographed holding her little sister in her arms. If only we could now find that charming photograph—it must be in one of the albums which the grand duchess has faithfully kept of all her children's doings and which amounts to almost a pictorial diary.

Princess Marina has played the same role towards her sister's children as her sister played towards her, and she describes the youngest prince, Prince Nicholas, as "just too adorable."

The bride's mother, Princess Nicholas, has always been a most unselfish mother.

"In the old days, when I needed money," she said, "any sum, I just sent a secretary to fetch it."

HAD TO ECONOMIZE

Then, when the whole wealth of the Romanoffs was confiscated by the Soviet government, the princess had to study ways and means very carefully, and at the same time has found the money to help her own country, who come to her with all their sorrows, moral and material.

With her daughter's consent, she sold the valuable jewels the Grand Duchess Vladimir left to her, and bought a little property at St. Germain-en-Laye, so well administered, where she houses the children of Russian workers, and this is directed by a Russian ex-general.

From an early age, the grand duchess taught the princesses not only to respect their father, as the head of the house, but to go out of their way to show him all sorts of little acts of kindness, consideration and courtesy.

The princesses were carried daily to their father, placed on cushions on the floor, and allowed to play with him for a while. He loved having them, and it was a great treat to them, but if they were naughty they had to be deprived of this pleasure, for they had to learn to obey and accept strict discipline.

The princesses are now grateful to their parents for the firm, but yet affectionate, way in which they were brought up—it is so much less trouble to give way to wilful children; and Princess Olga in her turn brings her children up in the same manner.

Whenever the princesses are traveling, they telephone to their parents every day to tell them all their doings. Every evening you see the grand duchess hurrying home to get her telephone call, and the prince, in case you should feel uncomfortable, explains to you: "It is time to have news of the children."

Quite recently, the papers described Princess Marina as "modern" and "very modern," she said, "any sum, I just sent a secretary to fetch it."

"If that is the case," said she, "I am not modern, for nothing has given me greater joy than the love of my unselfish mother and my charming cultured father."

NO BORROWING POLICY URGED

Politicians' Financing Cause of Trouble, Bell-Irving Says in Anti-usury Address

What is causing all the dissatisfaction in Canada to-day is lack of prosperity, and if prosperity were restored other problems would disappear. A. E. Bell-Irving of Vancouver, in a two-hour address, thus informed members of the British-Israel World Federation at their meeting at the A.O.F. Hall yesterday evening.

Prosperity can only be brought back by adherence to the fundamental laws of the Bible, declared Mr. Bell-Irving, who took as his subject, "The Bible, the Textbook of Government." He explained this significant theme in the Bible had a relation to present world conditions, particularly the reference in Deuteronomy, "Thou shalt not lend upon usury to thy brother."

Unification of the Canadian National Railways with the Canadian Pacific Railway, he charged, is the financial structure of the railways would neither solve the railway problem of Canada nor help the people in other matters, he said. The only thing that could make any difference was to bring back prosperity to the people.

OVER BORROWING

The main cause of the depression has been over-borrowing, all other causes being subsidiary to that, he went on.

"The right to borrow has given the politician a way out that never should have been given," Mr. Bell-Irving continued. "Some may say we could not get along without borrowing, but the governments, especially municipal, are doing it, because no one will lend to them. And if it can be done in times of depression, it can be done in decent times."

"It is better for a man to have a small house owned by himself than a fine big house belonging to the man across the street who holds the mortgage. Two-thirds of the costs of building on mortgage are absorbed in financing. The only way to take the bad teeth out of borrowing is to forbid interest, and by doing that you take it out of the field of money lending, which is usury, and usury is defined as exorbitant interest. It is a world-to-day is enslaved by the powers of debt."

"There can be no question of government repudiation, but there is a solution. The rate of interest charged depends on the credit rating of the borrower. It would be logical for the debtor to go to the New York or London financiers or bond-holders and ask for a reduction of interest. They will ask you what you can give in exchange and you will show them a proved credit rating. Now is that credit rating raised? By writing into the charter of your city, this city has no right to borrow."

The large crowd which heard Mr. Bell-Irving accorded him an enthusiastic ovation, to which were added personal expressions of approval.

Dr. Tolmie to Address Historical Society

The standing committee were re-elected yesterday afternoon at the meeting of the British Columbia Historical Society. Mrs. Muriel Cree was chosen as honorary secretary, and Dr. Kaye Lamb was appointed to the post of convener of the programme committee in place of the late John Hoste.

An address to the society will be given by Hon. F. S. Tolmie, in the archives department of the Provincial Library Friday evening next. His subject will be the part played by his family in the history of British Columbia. The meeting will be open to the public as well as members.

Arrangements are being completed for an address by His Honor Judge Howay.

FLY CAUSE OF $250 JUDGMENT

Phelan, Ark., Nov. 21.—The amount of damage a single fly can inflict became a legal question in Phillips County and a jury fixed the amount at $250.

The fly in question allegedly was in a bottle of beer purchased by a Helena resident. He said complications brought on an appendicitis operation and he asked for $2,975.

The jury awarded him $250. Attorneys for the bottling company said they would appeal.

Metropolitan Drama Victor

Young People's Society Carries Off J. W. Spencer Trophy

The J. W. Spencer Trophy, presented annually for competition among societies of the Young People's Union of the United Church, was yesterday evening carried off by the Metropolitan United Young People's Society, presenting "The Color Line," before an audience of 300, at Metropolitan Church.

The play is a serious piece, intended right through to point a moral, and with practically no action. It concerns the discouragement of a Chinese student in the United States, disavowed by his own people for becoming a Christian and snubbed everywhere by the white men for his color.

How he rejects Christianity, passes through despair and is brought back to his old beliefs after he has found that his old professor, the father of the only white girl for whom he has any respect, has been killed by a band of bandits under the command of his own father, and finally how he sees that he must fill the place of his tutor, is the plot of the playlet. The love between the girl and a young student whose main interest is the Officers' Training Corps, provides an additional theme.

The role of Barbara, the daughter, was played with a depth of feeling and richness of emotion rare in an amateur production, by Miss Catherine Craig. Herbert Simpson took the part of Chun, the Chinaman, and excelled by his notably clear diction. Ebert Wood had the part of Dr. Lawson, the principal of the college, and Douglas Ritchie that of Stanley Preston, the military-minded student; Genevieve Knapp that of a secretary, and Edith White that of another student and friend of Barbara.

MAKES INVITATION

The Metropolitan Young People's Society committee received a formal invitation from Capt. T. Thorpe-Douglas to take part in the local elimination contest for the Dominion Drama Festival, Capt. Thorpe-Douglas stated that he thought the play had a strong chance of acceptance with expert training.

Second place in the contest went to the Nanaimo Young People's Society, presenting "The Tapest on the Rocks," a farce concerning two girls who run a tea-shop three months without a customer, and what happens when the three social leaders of the town drop in when there are no stores left. Eventually the problem is solved by the lover of one of the young ladies. Incidentally the tea-shop is then closed.

The roles of the two young ladies, May and Daisy, were played with great vigor and sureness of touch by Grace Clements and Myrtle Odgers. Myrtle Odgers was Mrs. Carstairs, the social leader, Tom Hopkins, the young swain, Stanley Dakin the gas man and Edmund Anderson the grocer's boy.

EXPLAINS VERDICT

Nanaimo were last year's victors in the festival, and their performance yesterday drew the most applause from the audience. In announcing the decision, Major L. Bullock Webster explained his reason for awarding the prize elsewhere, stating that the audience naturally did not look at the acting from the same viewpoint as the adjudicator.

"Not Such a Sap," presented by the Victoria West Y.P.S., and leader of the first evening's session, was allotted third place. Yesterday evening it was even better staged than on Monday, but came up against far heavier competition.

Bill Lewis again had the play largely to himself. He was ably supported by Jack Price, Joan Hopkins, Lillian Painter and Doris Burrows.

"A Mad Breakfast," staged by the Sidney Y.P.S., is an amusing and fast moving story of a visitor to a boarding house, who is made to believe that the place is really a private lunatic asylum, while the guests all believe that he is a celebrity interested in their own troubles.

The cast, large but well-managed on a small stage, was as follows: Helen Keyworth, Mary Jackson, Emily Thornby, Bunty McLeod, Winnie Thornby, Gladys Roberts, William Davis, William Gardner, Frank Nunn and Harold Nunn.

Major Bullock Webster, in announcing his adjudication, briefly reviewed each of the eight plays presented during the two-day festival, outlining the weaknesses in the acting, and giving constructive criticism of the diction and stage management.

Points especially stressed were the danger of talking too much up-stage, over and under emphasis, the grouping of actors on the stage, and the taking of cues.

During the intervals between the presentations, the audience was entertained with violin solos by Roger Perle, accompanied by Janet Hay, and piano solos by Rhoda Craig.

In the absence of D. H. McCain, president of the Young People's Union, J. McCague acted as chairman for the festival. He was assisted with the organization by Miss H. Frendersgast, secretary of the union.

GEORGE ARLISS RETURNS TO U.S.

Canadian Press

New York, Nov. 21.—George Arliss, his monodic firm, but his hands fluttering, was back in the United States to-day after completing a motion picture in England, and he made immediate plans for the start of another movie in Hollywood.

The character actor was enthusiastic about British films and the state of British business, but he expressed himself as worried over how to portray the character Richelieu in his forthcoming Hollywood production of that name.

"There has been an extraordinary revival of business and prosperity in England," he said. "There has been no special method for bringing it about, but even the old grouches say business is good enough."

"When they said that, business must be good."

The English stage also has experienced a revival, Arliss said, and he was cheerful about the advanced state of the New York theatrical season.

NORMA SHEARER SAYS DESIRE FOR ROMANCE

Recent Morality Campaign in Movies Reawakens in Public
Mind Need of Idealism in Entertainment

Editor's note—Twelve of the leading screen stars have consented to write short articles for The Times. Norma Shearer leads off with her first public declaration about the recent censorship campaign, much of which revolved about the parts she took in films.

By NORMA SHEARER

Hollywood, Nov. 21.—There is much to be said on the side of control of motion pictures. While, strictly speaking, I am against censorship, a certain control often prevents vulgarity and bad taste from spoiling a great work of art and entertainment. However, the danger of motion picture censorship is that such a movement runs the risk of being carried too far, falling into the hands of fanatic and becoming unfair, impractical and destructive. I think every man knows how to run his own business, or should, and if he does not he will soon be out of it. The public attends to that. But I do think that this censorship movement, apart from making the picture business conscious of some bad taste used unnecessarily on the screen, has done one really important thing, and that is to reawaken in the mind of the public the desire for romance and idealism in their entertainment. And if that is given them, and is sincerely done, you will find a glow and a little tear in the eyes of even that tough guy when he walks out of the theatre—he is usually the one that goes for it. But great romantic stories are hard to find. They must be fundamentally right and sound. They must have dramatic suspense as well as charm—the latter a subtle potion. As a matter of fact, finding or creating suitable material for the screen is one of the great problems of the picture business, chiefly for two reasons: because stories told on the screen must have a universal appeal.

and because such a great number of stories are needed for the screen each year, to enable producers to turn out the picture they are obligated to make.

Although this business has some of the greatest literary talent in the world, it has to turn to books and plays constantly to keep up the supply with the demand. Once in awhile we are fortunate enough to find something that is not only a great piece of writing, but also a great piece of entertainment, like "The Barretts of Wimpole Street."

In my mind this is one of the greatest romances that ever lived, played against the highly dramatic background of parental tyranny, opposition and the defeating problem of ill-health. It appealed to me particularly, because it is the story of the triumph of love over hate, of great strength out of weakness, of the fight for freedom.

Even if the romance had not been about two of the world's greatest poets, what is more thrilling than the idea of love sweeping into Elizabeth Barrett's room, where she had languished as an invalid for many years—love, as Robert Browning expressed it, that "makes you feel new life tingling and pricking up your fingers and arms, up into your heart and brain—love that gave Elizabeth the strength to lift herself from her couch for the first time in years and carried her falteringly over to the window to catch one more glance of her lover—love that gave her the courage to defy her cruel and tyrannical father and all the traditions of his household, and flee from the protection of his solemn walls to seek adventure and sunshine with Robert Browning?

I think the lines as written by the playwright, Mr. Beesley, when Elizabeth first declares her love for Robert Browning, are as beautiful as any lines I have ever been given to say on the screen.

They are: "I want to live, but only because of you—the sight of your face and the sound of your voice and the touch of your hand. Because of you the air one moment is sweet to breathe and all the world is good and green again."

Next: Claudette Colbert.

HUDSON MODELS ARE SURPRISE

B. Grossman of Victoria
Sees New Automobiles at Windsor; Cars Are Bigger

Windsor, Nov. 21.—Springing a surprise on the assembled national distributor dealer convention here today, Hudson announced the immediate launching of next year's full production programmes stating that the Canadian plant would be making deliveries of a wide range of 1935 Terraplanes and Hudsons within the next few weeks.

Engineering advances in the forthcoming cars will include at least one major surprise for the industry. In styling, streamlining is still further advanced, but without anything rash or radical. The trend, as far as front end lines are concerned is distinctly towards narrower radiators. Cars are longer, rangier and roomier in the interior and some models will have three passenger capacity in the front seat. Unit construction and high ratio of power to weight are again being emphasized.

Vice-President Ross MacKinnon related to the convention the results of a survey which indicates another important upward spurt in retail sales in Canada next year with indications being that it will be general throughout the whole Dominion.

B. Grossman of Victoria, B.C., sales manager of Jameson Motors Limited, is at present here and is inspecting the new model.

YOU CAN'T BE CARELESS
with COLDS

At the first sign take
Grove's L.B.Q.'s

A cold is an internal infection. Whether it develops into something serious or not depends on the precautions taken to check it. Common sense dictates that you take a cold remedy that will give internal treatment.

There is nothing better you can take for a cold than Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine. It is internal and direct—it goes to the source of the trouble. It does the four things necessary. First, it opens the bowels; second, it combats the cold germs in the system and reduces fever; third, it relieves the headache and "grumpy" feelings; fourth, it tones up the entire system and fortifies against further attacks.

Keep Grove's handy in your medicine cabinet. At the first sneeze or chill take it as prescribed. Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine has what it takes to stop that cold quickly and effectively.

Buy a box at your nearest druggist (the large size is the most economical to buy). Make sure you get Grove's. They're in a white box.

CAPITOL STARS
LESLIE HOWARD

Popular English Star Plays Opposite Kay Francis in "British Agent"

An exceedingly large and powerful cast was selected for the dynamic roles in the First National Productions feature "British Agent," which comes to the Capitol Theatre to-day. Two of the most popular stars of the day, Leslie Howard and Kay Francis, head a list of twenty talented players in important speaking parts while there are a score more smaller roles and hundreds of extras playing in many of the spectacular scenes.

Leslie Howard is known on two continents for his masterly characterizations on both stage and screen. In American he is best known in the film world for his work in "Captured," "Of Human Bondage," "Berkeley Square," "Secrets" and "The Animal Kingdom."

American audiences are all familiar with the work of Kay Francis, the stately brunette beauty, whose latest pictures are "Dr. Monica," "Wonder Bar," "The House on 56th Street" and "I Loved a Woman."

Howard and Miss Francis furnish the romantic interest as two lovers, the former an unofficial British agent and the latter an aristocratic Russian turned Red.

Good Orchestra
To Be Featured

Another smart New York orchestra will be heard in Victoria this week-end at the Empire Theatre. It is the Manhattan Music Masters and will be featured with the new revue, "Artists and Models," which opens Friday, and play also on Saturday and Monday with a special midnight matinee on Sunday.

Joe Marcan is the master-of-ceremonies with this company, and he is said to be able to keep the show moving at a fast and entertaining pace.

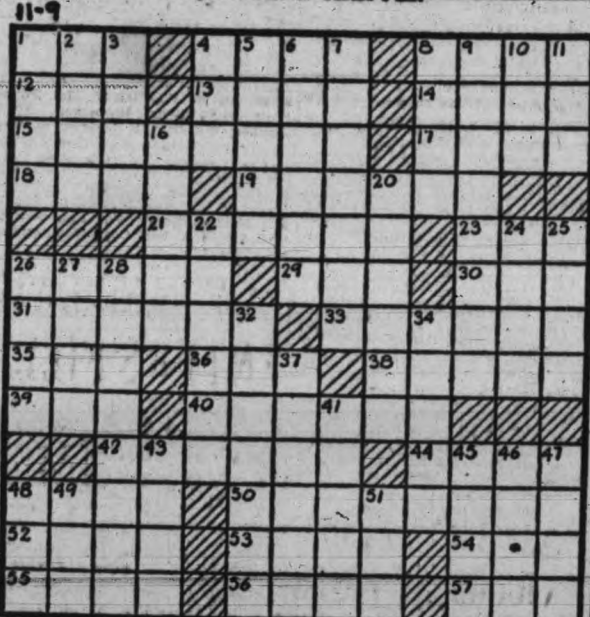

The costuming is colorful and ultra-modern and the scenery is in a class by itself. Both the costumes and the scenery have been specially mentioned in the reviews which the company has received in leading cities where it has appeared.

Shana and Loomis are featured on the bill and provide a little bit of everything, including singing, dancing and comedy numbers. Geraldine Ross sings and dances well, and Margaret Little and George Hall have been widely praised for their comedy numbers.

PLAYHOUSE THEATRE
 -Norma Shearer offers another of her magnetic and fascinating performances as a modern woman with ultra-modern ideals in "Riptide," her newest photoplay which opened yesterday at the Playhouse Theatre. Lavishly produced, brilliantly enacted by its star and an impressive supporting cast and bearing the directorial stamp of that ace director, Edmund Goulding, who also wrote the story. The new Shearer vehicle stands out as one of the finest productions to come from the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios and provides an entertainment of distinction in every phase of motion picture artistry.

Schubert Film
Opens Friday

"Thine Is My Heart," a British picture of outstanding beauty, comes to the Dominion Theatre on Friday for a week's run. Franz Schubert, one of the great song writers known in musical history, has been reincarnated by Richard Tauber, the noted German tenor.

Tauber sings the lovely music of Schubert in a manner that tugs at the heart strings. It is a veritable feast of song, the lovely "Serenade," the enchanting "Red Rose," the intensely fervent "Thine Is My Heart," all musical gems which have made the name of Schubert revered by singers of every nation, being on the programme.

In the gorgeous wedding scene in a cathedral, "Omni-potence," arranged as an anthem and sung by a choir of boys with Tauber taking the solo part, is rendered with a devotion that will find a responsive chord in every heart.

With an array of actors and actresses admirably cast it has an appeal equal to any musical production yet made.

"Monte Cristo"
Here Saturday

Film fans whose imaginations are fired by the fabulous treasure discovered by Edmond Dantes in Harry M. Goetz and Edward Small's million-dollar Reliance production of "The Count of Monte Cristo," released through United Artists and coming to the Capitol Theatre Saturday, may console themselves with the fact that a modern "Monte Cristo" would probably have to turn over at least half of his discovery to the nation with territorial claims upon the island.

Robert Donat, handsome young English screen and stage actor, brought to Hollywood for the title role in Reliance's "The Count of Monte Cristo," cured an acute attack of homesickness by hopping into his car at 3 o'clock one morning, driving to a little restaurant noted for its excellent Yorkshire pudding and meditatively consuming three orders of the toothsome English concoction.

CAPITOL
Coming Saturday

Particularly it offers an ideal medium for the presentation of its vivid star, Constance Bennett, and its rapidly rising leading man, Herbert Marshall.

As "Iris" and "Napier," Miss Bennett and Mr. Marshall fit smoothly and easily into the characteristics provided for them by the clever pen of the original author, Michael Arlen, and the scenarist, Zoe Akins.

COLUMBIA THEATRE

While working in "Registered Nurse," the First National picture which is being shown at the Columbia Theatre, Bebe Daniels celebrated the twentieth anniversary of her first appearance on the screen. Bebe is just thirty.

She cannot even remember when she was not playing either for the stage or screen. Her first recollections are of playing before the footlights at the age of four. She was twelve when she made her first screen appearance.

REPORTERS ISSUE OWN PAPER NOW

Associated Press
 Newark, N.J., Nov. 21.—The Newark Morning Ledger's big presses were silent to-day while striking editorial workers, in a little print shop nearby, rushed to press with a paper of their own.
 Soon after L. T. Russell, publisher, had announced suspension of the Ledger yesterday evening, the strike, terming the move a victory for their cause, organized a makeshift staff and gathered bulletins on local news and politics for publication this morning.
 "The Reporter" is the four-page paper's name. "Volunteer" linotypes helped to rush production, strike leaders said. One article was headed "Leader falls you-site staff doesn't".

TAX ON PAPER HELD UNJUST

Head of Canadian Newspapers' Association Scores Government Levy Policy

Canadian Press
 Toronto, Nov. 21.—W. J. J. Butler, president of the Canadian Daily Newspaper Association, to-day issued the following statement to the Canadian Press relative to the proposed advance in the price of newspaper:
 "Only the low prevailing price of newspaper and the most efficient management has enabled the publisher to continue for the last few years the production of our daily newspapers at present prices.
 "Cumulative taxes have been levied by the government, and to-day the publisher is paying what is considered to be an unfair tax of 6 per cent on newspaper, an increase in postal rates and a surcharge on postal rates on excess advertising content before profits (if any) are reached, when a further corporation tax of 12 1/2 per cent has to be met.
 "The profit tax is not combated, but the sales tax on newspaper is felt to be unjust because no method has been devised to pass this on to the consumer and, consequently, a direct tax to the publisher is the result.
 "Some of the Canadian publishers recognize that newspaper has been priced almost unprofitably to the mills during the last two years, just as in 1921 to 1923 they were abnormally high, reaching prices that were entirely unreasonable. The publishers know the second largest Canadian industry cannot be operated in perpetual bankruptcy, but we will, of course, vigorously combat a cumulative campaign involving persistent annual or semi-annual increases in newspaper prices that are unwarranted.
 "There is no question that publishers are being asked by government to meet taxes beyond their power to pay, for, in addition to a Dominion tax, we pay a further provincial corporation tax in Ontario, which is so important for the future welfare of Canada."

Belgian Cabinet To Resign In February

Associated Press
 Brussels, Nov. 21.—Premier George Theunis, who formed a new coalition cabinet after much difficulty yesterday, intends to resign early in February. This was learned yesterday evening.

He regards his office as an interim government, to hold office while special powers, granted last July to regulate and tax industry in a fight against unemployment, remain in effect. These will expire in February.

The Labor Party already has announced resolute opposition to the cabinet, pointing to the fact that six of its members among the fifty-eight official positions or directorships in important industrial concerns.

EGG MARKET FALLS AGAIN

Poor Montreal Demand Sends Local Prices Down Two to Five Cents

Lack of demand in Montreal struck another blow at the local egg market, and prices slipped two to five cents again to-day.

Grade A, large, dropped five cents, while grade A, medium, were off three cents, and grade A, pullet, down two cents.

The falling eastern egg market has caused eggs to slip almost ten cents since Saturday. A week ago wholesale prices for grade A large reached a peak for the winter of 41 cents. To-day they are quoted at 30 cents.

The mild weather in the east is blamed for the slumping market. British Columbia poultrymen are now producing more eggs than can be consumed within the Province, and have to export a certain number. However, if there is another cold spell, and shortage in Ontario and Quebec, egg prices are likely to rise again.

With Montreal prices fairly firm, the local butter market remained steady to-day.

Judge Counsels Agreement on Girl

The habeas corpus hearings over the custody of six-year-old Margaret Jean Floyd came to an end after noon to-day, with Mr. Justice J. Robertson of the Supreme Court urging the natural parents and the foster parents to get together and agree to some arrangement in the interests of all.

"All the people in this case are nice people and have the interests of the child at heart," the judge said. He pointed out that the natural parents have six children, while the foster parents are childless.

The judge ordered the parties on both sides could not get together, then he would be forced to decide the fate of the little girl on principle of law.

The little girl is now in custody of her foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Ironside Angus of Esquimalt, who adopted her under a legally-drawn adoption agreement in 1932. D. S. Tait has conducted the case for them in the hearing, which began on Monday.

The habeas corpus application was initiated after other proceedings by H. A. Beckwith, counsel for Mr. and Mrs. Thomas S. L. Floyd of Brentford, the natural parents, who claim the return of the little girl on the grounds that some of the terms of the adoption agreement had not been carried out.

CONSIDER NEW BUILDING PLAN

City Working on Draft to Amend Old By-laws to Enable Cheaper Construction

Revision of the city's building by-laws to facilitate the erection of less expensive structures in certain parts of the city, is receiving special attention by the city building inspector's department, Alderman Walter Luney announced to-day.

The object of the revision will be to set up regulations permitting the construction of cheaper type buildings in some areas formerly restricted to the first-class fireproof class.

The project may overlap to a certain extent the zoning by-law, but nothing will be done definitely until the two are reconciled.

When the draft has been completed in the rough, the city officials will invite the assistance of special committees on the question from outside organizations. They will be allowed to make suggestions and point out any disadvantages they see in the scheme.

The present building code is reported to be unworkable owing to the number of modifications put into force to assist different building. These modifications have established precedents which defeat the object of the regulations.

ITALY PROTESTS JUGOSLAV PRESS

Associated Press
 Geneva, Nov. 21.—Italy protested to the League of Nations to-day against reports that Premier Mussolini is attempting to block a Yugoslav request for "satisfaction" as a result of the assassination of King Alexander.

The protest said the Yugoslav memorandum was "welcomed as within Yugoslavia's rights."

Italy's action followed similar protests by her in London and Paris against "the violence of the Yugoslav press," which alleges Italy had a large part in the fostering of Croat terrorist camps.

Government Buys Site in Winnipeg

Ottawa, Nov. 21.—The Dominion Government has purchased from the Canadian National Railway the old industrial building in Winnipeg, adjacent to the railway terminal there, on the corner of Main and Water Streets.

The purchase price was $175,000. The industrial building will be razed and a seven-story departmental building will be erected in its place. It will be an office building, one floor of which will be rented to the railway to house its officials occupying the present structure.

To Name Man For Director of Bank

The Victoria Chamber of Commerce will join with similar organizations in British Columbia to select a man who will properly represent the interests of the province in the directorship of the Bank of Canada.

Warren states it is called in the interests of the shareholders and they will be asked to appoint their own chairman and conduct their own meeting.

In a letter on the subject the Canadian Chamber of Commerce suggests there should be one director from the maritime provinces, two from Quebec, two from Ontario, one from the prairies and one from British Columbia. Stating that it proposes to sponsor a national slate, the Canadian Chamber asks for unanimity in British Columbia on the nomination of a candidate for director.

SUNSHINE INN MAKES REPORT

Meals Provided in Month Total 3,754; Breakfast Is Resumed For Winter

Sunshine Inn provided 3,754 meals during the last month, which brings the grand total since the inn commenced operation up to 253,234. Of the 3,754 meals, 1,000 were for women and 4,288 to children. The inn has been in operation for 1,032 consecutive days, it was stated at a meeting of the directors of the Victoria Welfare Foundation to-day.

The financial statement showed a cash income of $206.04 and a cash outlay of $172.08, which left a cash surplus for the month of $33.96.

On November 1 the serving of the breakfast was resumed, and two meals will be provided daily until April 30. The breakfast is served between the hours of 9.30 and 10.30 a.m., and the afternoon meal between 3 and 4.30 o'clock. When the inn was serving one meal a day, it was known that anyone that was needy and unable to provide themselves with breakfast, could, by applying to the manager, receive a refund on their room privilege was taken advantage of to the extent of approximately 100 meals during the four months.

The manager's action of asking unattached able-bodied men to take advantage of the facilities of camp during the winter months, so that the odd work around the city would be done by men who could not leave and married men, was endorsed by the committee.

Robert Mayhew of the Sidney Roofing Company provided ten gallons of roofing cement, which was required for resurfacing a portion of the roof of the inn, which was giving trouble and leaking.

The inside of Sunshine Inn has been painted throughout with one coat of paint, provided as a gift from J. C. Pendray, and the work of putting it on was done by Jeff King, an unemployed man who has had meals at the inn.

Cash contributions from September 1 to November 20, inclusive, are as follows: W. T. Andrews $5, Mrs. C. Hartley $5, John A. Grant $15, children's play, "Wanted a Wizard," produced at 1718 St. David Street, $45; Mrs. P. C. Colquhoun $10, Mrs. B. S. J. NEW CANDIDATE ENTERS FIELD

Ernest Edward Bragg Seeks Seat on Council; Raises Aspirants to Eight

Ernest Edward Bragg, book-keeper, of 1272 Centre Road, who ran unsuccessfully last year, to-day became the eighth candidate entered in the contest for five aldermanic seats on the city council.

With no affiliations other than those of a property owner, Mr. Bragg is a native son, plans to build his platform around the objective of keeping taxes down and showing preference for "satisfaction" in posts have to be filled in the civic employ.

To-day the fight for council seats loomed as the only contest in the civic lists. Those who will seek posts include three of the four aldermen whose terms will expire at the end of the year and five outsiders.

The aldermen are Dr. J. D. Hunter, Andrew McDevlin and Walter Luney. The others in addition to Mr. Bragg are P. J. Crowhurst, Mrs. Alice McGregor, Walter Inward and Ed Williams.

Mayor Leeming is the only candidate so far for the post of chief magistrate, while the council board Trustees P. E. George and W. C. Moresby, K.C., will seek return and Mr. D. L. MacLaurin has announced himself as another candidate. Kenneth Ferguson is the only one standing for the one-year term.

PREMIER VIEWS SITE OF BRIDGE

Construction at New Westminster to Go Ahead; Greatly Needed

Premier Pattullo returned to Victoria to-day after a visit to the mainland, where he inspected the site for the new bridge across the Fraser River at New Westminster.

The premier was accompanied by Hon. P. M. MacPherson, Minister of Public Works, and Hon. A. Wells Gray, Minister of Lands.

Stating this morning that construction would go ahead as rapidly as possible, the premier declared that a good deal of misinformation and misconception of purpose had been responsible for criticism of the government's plan to build the bridge.

When the work got under way, men were employed the objection would vanish, he thought. People of Vancouver should be wholeheartedly behind the idea of improving the traffic conditions across the river.

The government is now awaiting the result of financial negotiations for the other proposed bridge across the Fraser River at Ladner. The premier said an agreement with the company sponsoring this structure had been substantially reached.

QUERY SCHOOL PUPILS' MORALS

Inquiry Started By Unusual Charges in Ontario Institutions

Toronto, Nov. 21.—Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn to-day demanded proof of charges by M. A. Sorocelli, deputy minister of welfare, that contraband were being sold to school pupils in Ontario and described the charges as sounding "like gross exaggeration."

On the other hand, Frank Sharpe, secretary of the Big Brother Movement here, declared he believed the charges were correct and mentioned he had in his office "a huge display of contraband" taken from a fifteen-year-old boy within the last forty-eight hours. Mr. Sharpe declared "people think we are talking through our hats. We are not. These things are true."

Mr. Hepburn said: "If Mr. Sorocelli has evidence to send them to the government at once."

The deputy minister told a United Church body yesterday that cigarette smoking and forms of immorality prevailed among small children and adolescents attending Ontario schools.

Are Children Selfish to Marry and Leave Home? Finds Parents Solitary Youth

A WOMAN weeps upon my breast, and calls upon me to mingle my tears with hers because her son is going to be married. "Think of the cruelty of it! Think of the selfishness of it! Think of the ingratitude of it!" she wails. "Think of his leaving me after I have given my whole life to him since the day he was born!"

"Why should mothers have to suffer the loss of their children and give them up to someone else after they have sacrificed everything for them? I tell you children have no appreciation of what their mothers do for them, or else they wouldn't forsake them for some snip of a girl or boy.

"I thought I could escape the fate of other mothers and keep my son with me, so I tried to be everything to him. I played with him. I weeded with him. I studied with him. I traveled with him. I kept him away from young people as much as I could. But all my efforts have been in vain. He has fallen in love with a girl and he is going to marry her, in spite of all I can do to prevent it, and leave me. Oh, children are cruel to their mothers, and there is no gratitude in them!"

"Stuff and nonsense," I replied. "It is mothers who are cruel to their children when they try to monopolize them and stand between them and the normal life to which they are entitled. It is not mothers who have a right to reproach their children for getting married. It is the children who are aggrieved when their mothers attempt to deprive them of the highest happiness that ever comes to a human being.

"There are many women who cannot bear the thought of their children leaving them, or of their coming to care more for someone else than they do for them. I once heard a mother, who had broken off a match between her daughter and a splendid young man, exclaim: 'Talk about jealousy! I tell you there is no jealousy on earth that tears the very soul out of you like that you feel when you see your child loving someone else better than she does you. The jealousy of a woman for a man is as nothing compared to the jealousy of a mother for her child.'

"That kind of mother jealousy has wrought innumerable tragedies. It has separated many young lovers and driven many a man and woman to a lonely old bachelorhood and spinsterhood. Nor is this the worst of it. Statisticians tell us it is the chief cause of divorce and that more homes are broken up by mothers who will not surrender their claim on their son or daughter than by all the shells and sirens in the world.

"Yet every woman knows that the love that a man or woman feels for a mother in no way conflicts with that which he or she feels for a mate. The two emotions are not the same, and, instead of marriage lessening a child's affection for mother, it invariably increases it, unless mother herself destroys it. It is only after we become parents ourselves that we realize the depths of our own mothers' and fathers' love for us and appreciate the patience and tenderness they showed us.

"Any woman who thinks that she can keep her children from marrying by making herself all-in-all to them betrays herself. It is one of the things that cannot be done. Between the generations is a gulf that no ingenuity nor labor can bridge. Each age is in touch only with its own.

"Look at any group of youngsters. How bored they are with the society of their elders, but they whoop with joy when they are playing with companions of their own age. The silliest, giggling flapper is more interesting company to a boy than his mother is, even though she is as wise and witty as Dorothy Parker. Youth calls to youth and boys and girls want to be with other girls and boys who dance the same steps as they do, who are crazy over the same movie actors, who talk the same lingo and who have the same enthusiasms.

"They may adore, respect, revere mother and think her the most wonderful woman in the world, but she doesn't satisfy their desire for companionship. They must have somebody of their own age for that.

"It is a strange thing that the woman who has found such joy in her own children that she cannot bear to give them up, should be willing to keep them from having that same great experience. She herself had the full life. She knew love and marriage and the happiness of having a baby's head on her breast and the interest of seeing little minds develop. She had the quiet happiness of her own home, but she would deny her children these.

"She would sacrifice her children to herself and make of her daughters sour and embittered old maids cheated of their happiness, and of her sons, dedicated old bachelors, who have spent their lives fetching mother's shawl."

"But," says the possessive mother, "if my children marry I will lose them." "Not if you are generous, understanding and sympathetic and willing for them to take their happiness as they find it. Then their marriages will not separate you from them, but will draw them closer to you."

"If we would keep our children, we must be willing to lose them."

Uncle Wiggily And Buster's Train

By HOWARD R. GARIS

One day Buster, the little boy rabbit, awakened in Uncle Wiggily's stumpy bungalow coughing and sneezing. "Oh, Buster has a cold!" said Nurse Jane, when she heard him. "Then he can't go to school to-day!" said Mrs. Wiggily.

"Buster has all the luck!" said his brother Buster. "I could stay home from school," Buster tried to cough and sneeze, but he couldn't do it very well. His mother and Nurse Jane laughed at him and he had to hop along to school with Baby Bunt and all the other little rabbits.

Buster stayed home. He wasn't in enough to be kept in bed so he played around the bungalow. First he went out in the kitchen.

"I'll help you wash the dishes, Nurse Jane," he said. "Well, you can hardly do that," said the mistress lady housekeeper. "But you may help me dry them." Buster started to dry the dishes but he dropped a cup and broke it.

"Oh, dear!" he said. "Look!" "Well, it was an old cracked cup," said Nurse Jane. "But you might drop a good plate, Buster, so I think you had better not dry any more dishes for me. Hop along and play at something else."

HELPS MAKE BEDS "I'll go upstairs and help mother make the beds," the little boy rabbit said. Up the stairs he hopped. His mother was making the thirty-seven sixteen beds in which Uncle Wiggily's buntings slept. "Let me help!" begged Buster. But instead of spreading the sheets out smoothly he made them into lumps like footballs and then he pulled the cases off the pillows instead of putting them on until at last his mother laughed and said: "Buster, hop along and play somewhere else!"

Buster hopped into a room where Baby Bunt slept with the twins, Jingle and Jangle. The boy rabbit said to himself: "Here I can have fun!" Then he stood on a chair and made a big jump into the middle of the nice, smooth bed, bouncing up and down on springs. There was only a swimming hole here I could jump in!"

His mother heard the noise he was making by jumping on the bed. She hopped to the door and saw him. She had to smooth the bed out again, which made a lot of extra work.

the train and you must be the conductor and collect tickets."

"Do you think Buster can do all that?" asked Mrs. Wiggily.

"It will keep him busy trying to do it," whispered Uncle Wiggily, and that will keep him out of mischief. "Watch!" So Uncle Wiggily got in one of the chair cars. "All ready, Buster! Start the train!" he said.

"All aboard!" cried Buster the brakeman. "Toot! Toot!" yelled Buster the whistle. "Ding-dong!" rang the bell. "Choo! Choo!" puffed Buster the engine. "That's all!" said the conductor. And so he had a fine time in Uncle Wiggily's train and did no more mischief. If the rabbit boy will be the football over the roller skate's head, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and Bunt's boat.
